Shots Fired as 12,000 Mill Hands Sweep Through Lawrence Streets

Lawrence, March 25.—An army of 12,000 textile strikers, some of them discharging revolvers in the air, swept through the streets, dominated the mill section and staged a gigantic demonstration of defiance before those plants the officials of which yesterday refused to arbitrate with the strikers' committees.

This was the answer of the operatives to the stand of the mill owners, although strike leaders made it plain that the discharge of firearms was no part of their program, and doubted that the men who were guilty of such a show of violence were even operatives.

The Arlington mill district was visited for the first time in weeks, and not less than 10,000 strikers congregated in the short side streets in that neighborhood and remonstrated with operatives on their way to work. No leaders of note were on the picket lines, but minor chiefs were out in force, marshalling their cohorts according to a prearranged plan, and regimenting the huge mob into a fairly orderly if somewhat noisy and ugly-tempered assembly.

Police reserves were rushed to the

George Washington and "Abe" Lincoln Against League

By THOMAS F. PHELAN.

Camp Devens, Ayer, March 25.—George Washington is opposed to the League of Nations. He says we should stick to the ideals for which the colonists fought, bled and died. He wants the world to know that he is opposed to taxation without representation. He is backed up in his theories by Abe Lincoln. Both are members of the 442d Reserve Labor Battalion. They are colored men and hail from the sunny South.

"I'd like to know how we are going to elect members of parliament in this country," said Washington. "We don't want any entangling alliances."

"Them's my sentiments," said Lincoln. "Woody may be all right on the fourteen points, but give me the good old U. S. A."

2-PLATOON BILL REPORTED IN NEW DRAFT

Referendum Attached to Firemen's Measure Now Before State Senate

A new draft of the firemen's two-platoon bill, calling for establishment of a two-platoon system in such cities and towns as accept it by referendum vote, was reported to the Senate today by the Legislative Committee on Cities.

The new bill applies only to members of the department, not to officers and members both.

It provides that at least one-half the fire-fighting force must be off duty at all the time, except during a "conflagration." The latter is deemed to exist only after a general alarm has been sounded.

The bill repeals the present one-day-off-in-five system that applies throughout the State, except in Boston, which has a one-day-off-in-three system.

The new system under the bill, is to go into effect ninety days after referendum acceptance by city or town, instead of on January 1 next, as specified in the old two-platoon bill.

BOSTON COMPANY NAMED IN COMMERCIAL BRIBERY

Washington, March 25.—The Federal Trade Commission today issued five complaints alleging commercial bribery, naming three interstate soap manufacturing companies and two supplies concerns as follows:

F. Kenney Manufacturing Company, Boston; Home Soap Manufacturing Company, Rome, N. Y.; Standard Soap Manufacturing Company, Woonsocket, R. I.; Engineering Supply Company, Philadelphia, and William H. Swan & Sons, New York city, makers of ship supplies. The commission stated that in all five complaints it had reason to believe the concerns "secretly paid money to employes of customers and prospective customers to influence the purchase of supplies."

"We have never paid money to anyone to use our products," declared Mrs. Frank Kenney, president of the F. Kenney Manufacturing Company, when informed today that the Federal Trade Commission had issued a complaint against her company alleging commercial bribery.

WILLARD FIGHT A MOVIE FRAUD, IS CHARGE

Chicago, March 25.—Under the signature of its sports editor, Edward W. Smith, the Chicago Evening American today prints a story charging that the Jess Willard-Jack Dempsey fight scheduled for July 4 is not intended as a championship battle, but as a motion picture enterprise.

It is charged that the intent is to circumvent the Federal law forbidding exhibition of fight pictures outside the State in which the fight occurs.

The story is based on a letter received by Smith but the name of the author of the letter is withheld.

According to the article, which makes reference to an unnamed leading Chicago motion picture man, a major just discharged from the United States army, Douglas Fairbanks, noted motion picture actor, is to be referee of the fight.

The story charges it is the aim of Tex Rickard to display pictures of the fight, not as a fight picture, but as a movie feature under the name "The Referee." Charles Weeghman, former president of the Chicago Cubs, is mentioned as being interested in the film.

SUPPORTS HUNGARY MOVE

German Government Reported Turning to Bolshevism to Influence Peace Conference

By International News Service.

London, March 25.—Determination is growing in Germany to attempt to influence the peace conference by following Hungary, in joining up with the Russian Bolsheviki, said a Berlin dispatch to the Post today.

The step taken by Hungary added the dispatch, is hailed with the greatest satisfaction and sympathy. The Geneva correspondent of the Chronicle telegraphs that there is good reason to believe that Count Karolyi's "Machiavellian coup" was undertaken at Budapest with the connivance of the German government, in an effort to force easier peace terms from the entente.

(Count Karolyi was head of the republican government at Budapest up to last Saturday, when, along with the rest of the Socialists, the Cabinet resigned, leaving an open pathway for the Bolsheviki to assume dictatorship.)

Berlin, March 25.—The new Bolshevik government at Budapest has separated the church from the state, abolished all titles of nobility in Hungary, and has decided upon the socialization of all commercial enterprises, said advices from that city tonight. The banks have been seized.

London, March 25.—The Soviet government at Budapest has established its first revolutionary tribunal, said a Central News dispatch this afternoon. The Soviet has addressed a proclamation to Russian war prisoners and soldiers returning from Russia, inviting them to join the Bolshevik army.

London, March 25.—The startling suggestion is now being made in Paris that Nicholai Lenine, the Bolshevik premier of Russia, be asked to send representatives of the Soviet government to the peace conference, according to the Daily Express today.

By International News Service.

Washington, March 25.—Reduction of 1,147 sentences imposed by courts-martial, out of 12,472 cases considered, was announced by the clemency board of the adjutant-general's office this afternoon.

Of the sentences reduced, it was stated, the average time taken off was 9.6 per cent.

There were 3,362 sentences for absence without leave, of which 112 were recommended for reduction; 51 for mutiny, with 10 recommended; 609 sleeping on post, 63 recommended; 1,196 for disobedience of orders, 105 recommended; 208 disobedience of regulations, 46 recommended; 173 assault and attempted assault, 34 recommended, and 4,840 miscellanous, 390 recommended.

PRICES OF MILK MAY DROP BY APRIL 1

Owing to the cessation of Federal price fixing, there may be a reduction in the price of milk by April first, according to John F. Cusick, attorney for certain large milk dealers, who appeared before the legislative committee on agriculture and public health today.

The hearing was on a bill relating to the State handling the milk business and fixing retail prices.

Asked how retail prices will be fixed after the Federal Milk Commission goes out of business, Mr. Cusick said it would be done as formerly, by agreement among dealers.

The attorney said that 85 per cent. of milk transported is watered and that if water can be taken out at the point of production, ship the residue and then restore the water at the point of distribution, it may be possible to reduce the price a little more.

EDWARDS FORBIDS 'CASKET'

Rules Against Gruesome Feature in Reception Parade of the 26th

The victory parade of the Yankee Division in Boston will probably be between the 3rd, 4th or 5th of May, and it will be lacking the dead music, the draped casket and the horse in funeal tappings which some have suggested to remind the spectators of the invisible host of New England's dead.

This was the declaration today of Major-General Clarence R. Edwards, commander of the Northeast, and former commander of the Yankee Division.

"It is not advisable to have the casket and the rest of it, as has been suggested," said the man who knows better than any other what the boys of the 26th want. We can show our respect for the hero dead in other ways.

"I would suggest a wire screening in front of the State House into which may be thrown wreaths or blossoms in memory of the Yankee Division lads wh omarched away and did not come back.

"CASKET TOO GHASTLY."

"The casket arrangement is too ghastly. It is calculated to turn the parade into a dead march, instead of a triumphal procession, and to make us forget that we are celebrating a victory, glorifying great deeds, as well as paying tribute to the dead.

"The boys who are dead would not want us to welcome those who are living so much with tears as with smiles and rejoicing. It is an occasion of triumph for New England, not one for sorrow. Even the mother of the boy who gave all can afford on that day to be proud and happy that she had a son found worthy to make such a sacrifice in such a cause."

The suggestion of General Edwards

GERMANY TO SEEK HUGE AMERICAN LOAN TO MEET DEBTS

VON BERNSTORFF OUTLINES HER PEACE CLAIMS

By ALFRED G. ANDERSEN.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.
Copyright, 1919, by International News Service.

Berlin, March 24, via London, March 25.—Germany is going to the Paris peace conference with three well defined groups of claims:

1. Restoration of the German colonies.
2. Preservation of Germany's ethnological borders.
3. Future nationality of disputed European territories formerly forming part of the German empire to be considered by self-determination.

Germany will enter the peace conference with a clear understanding of the obligation of paying for the damage done in the devastated regions of France and Belgium.

She probably will make a formal request for a huge American loan to enable her to discharge these obligations.

These are the outstanding features of an interview I have just had with Count von Bernstorff, former German ambassador to the United States, who will be an adviser to the German delegates.

Count von Bernstorff has established what virtually amounts to a peace clearing house at No. 21 Behrenstrasse. He is to be the intermediary link between the German cabinet and the peace delegation at Paris. The German peace envoys will submit all reports to Bernstorff, who will then sift them and transmit the different parts of them to the respective government departments directly interested in the various subjects.

Count von Bernstorff, furthermore, will directly forward all instructions to the Paris delegation.

WANTS TO BE PRESIDENT.

The former ambassador continues a leading Democrat in Germany. He is the originator and the first president of the new German Democratic Club. His party has offered him the first candidacy on the Democratic ticket in the next elections to the national assembly and Bernstorff has accepted.

"I will head the ticket and am sure of election," he confided to me.

The count's friends say he has chosen the national assembly as a stepping stone to the German presidency. His success lies, of course, in the hands of the Socialists.

"The Democrats are not far separated from the government Socialists," said Bernstorff. "We differ in policy only on one of the main points, and that the question of the nationalization of property. We Democrats believe in private ownership."

I found Bernstorff seated behind a large, flat-topped mahogany desk, dressed in a democratic salt and pepper sack suit of the American business man, his face partly hidden by large tortoise shell spectacles.

NOTHING TO HIDE.

"This is rather a large order," observed the count when I asked him to give me a statement of Germany's claims at the peace table. "Under the old style diplomacy such a question would hardly have drawn a straight answer, as, formerly, it was considered of paramount importance not to expose your cards before the game.

"But," he added, with a touch of irony, "in these days of open diplomacy we have absolutely nothing to hide. While I cannot cover the whole ground in an interview, I can tell you with the utmost frankness that Germany will insist on a peace of right and justice such as promised the German people in the most solemn manner by your President."

I asked the count whether, in his opinion, President Wilson had not made an excellent beginning in that direction for insisting upon the formation of a League of Nations.

"The draft of the constitution," replied Bernstorff, "is without doubt a most satisfactory start and it certainly took a man of Mr. Wilson's powerful personality to achieve that much in the face of such determined opposition. Nevertheless, only a small part of the constitution bears Mr. Wilson's personal stamp. The large remainder is the result of compromises.

"I shall not go so far as the Figaro, which opines that the 'mystical Society of Nations has turned into a league of the five great powers which defeated Germany.' But I do think the draft of the constitution will require considerable amending to come up to the expectations that enlightened mankind has placed in President Wilson's plan to make the world safe against military despotism.

"I may add a remark concerning the colonial provisions of the combination. The idea of putting tropical colonies under the guardianship of the league in order to protect the natives against exploitation and abuses by white colonizers, such as the traffic in arms and liquor, is certainly most admirable.

"But to apply the humanitarian scheme of making those countries go dry exclusively to the German colonies strikes me as being rather one-sided.

"Furthermore, the total exclusion of the German people from the field of colonization could hardly be called a free, open-minded and absolutely impartial adjustment of all colonial claims, which Mr. Wilson announced as one essential point of the only possible program of the world's peace."

CANNOT BE IGNORED.

"What will Germany's territorial claims be at the peace conference table?" I asked.

Count von Bernstorff answered:

"The German people will claim nothing beyond their ethnological frontiers. Nobody can deny us our natural right of being one united German nation. For the rest, the principle of national self-determination alone must determine our new frontiers in the East and West, as well as in the North and South.

"This, I am sure, will meet with general approval at the conference table, for, as Mr. Wilson said himself: 'Self determination is not a mere phrase; it is an imperative principle of action which statesmen will henceforth ignore at their own peril.'"

Count von Bernstorff cited Secretary Lansing's note of November 6, 1918, and, under circumscribing the financial claims Germany will make at the conference table.

"We are prepared to make compensation for the damage determined in the note," said Bernstorff. "But how we shall be able to meet that obligation is a problem of almost equal magnitude to our opponents and ourselves.

"If our enemies are bent on completely ruining Germany they will get from her only a small fraction of that compensation, as furthermore almost certainly turn her into a hotbed of Bolshevism.

"Germany can merely pay with certain national products, such as coal and potash, rather than the work of her industries. But to keep our industries going we shall require large quantities of raw material, and we cannot obtain these unless extensive credits are granted us. Consequently I see no other solution of the problem than a large loan which perhaps the United States will grant to Germany to make her a paying concern again.

"Without such a loan I do not see how Germany can pay any indemnity at all."

'RED' CRISIS IN EUROPE IS GROWING

Clashes are taking place between bands of armed workmen and the Serbians in Southern Hungary. The Hungarian "Reds" are occupying banks and have taken over many newspapers.

All the allied subjects in Budapest are believed to be safe, but allied monitors are steaming up the Danube at top speed to protect the entente's interests.

The Hungarian soviets have ordered general mobilization of Hungarian troops as a result of the advance of Rumanian troops into Transylvania.

The Bolshevist situation in Hungary, with its possible results in Germany, is being closely watched by the peace conference delegates in Paris. The chief fear now in this zone of the smaller powers, influenced by events at Budapest, may intrigue for their own selfish interests.

Troop movements are under way in Galicia (Eastern Hungary) with a view to a coalition of Hungarian and Russian Bolshevik troops.

Conflicting reports have been received as to the movement of the armies in Eastern Europe. One report said that 70,000 Hungarian soldiers were on their way to invade Poland. A later report had it that Russian Bolshevik troops were on their way into Galicia to join the Hungarians.

Italy Is Entitled to Support of U. S. in Her Claims, Says Orlandini

Lieutenant Vittorio Orlandini in an address before the Neponset Lodge of Odd Fellows in Wenona Hall, Dorchester, said in part:

"Italy as the closest neighbor to the eastern coast of the Adriatic is in condition to judge with complete fairness the course of events in Jugo-Slavia, and the steps that she is taking must be viewed by the Americans as a guarantee of order and peace rather than an element of disorder.

"I would not be sincere were I to tell you that the Italians in this country are flattered by the antagonistic attitude adopted by some writers in newspapers outside of Boston. In regard to Italy's aspirations at the peace table.

"I have heard Italians express their surprise at the criticisms which for-tunately have been confined to a very few organs of public opinion in the country. They claim that Italy, by her early launch support of the allied cause, by her sacrifices which in proportion have been greater than the other countries, and especially by the devotion and attachment to the United States by the three million Italian sons residing in this country who unanimously and spontaneously have rallied to the support of the United States in time of need, investing gladly of their hard-earned savings in government bonds while their people at home were in dire need of financial help, waiving exemption from military service and joining by thousands, and I should say by hundreds of thousands, the American army, they claim, that Italy has gained the right to the unconditional support of American public opinion.

"Unfortunately certain newspapers have been willing to accept without the traditional grain of salt several reports from partial sources which afterwards have been shown as being absolutely false.

"Such attitude of indiscriminating sympathy towards the Jugo-Slavs, who, until recently, as the most faithful subjects of the Austrian-Hungarian empire fought the allies on the Italian front, appears as an open contradiction to all principles of fairness and justice.

Peace Council Ready To Take Severe Measures To Check Hungarians

By JOHN T. PARKERSON.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Paris, March 25.—At no time since the peace conference opened has the menace of Bolshevism been so seriously considered as it is today.

It is pointed out that, by winning over Hungary, the Bolsheviks have opened up the gateway to virtually the whole of Central Europe.

While no official statement was issued concerning the conference of President Wilson, Marshal Foch and the allied Premiers, just before the meeting of the Council of Ten on Monday, it is understood that the situation in Hungary is viewed as serious enough to call for active measures to check Bolshevism. What form these measures will take is known only to the heads of the governments.

Marshal Foch, for the moment, possibly will wait to see the effect of the presence of British monitors at Budapest.

If these war vessels do not quiet the Hungarians more drastic action may be taken.

One element of the general Bolshevik situation which is being considered is the enormous population of Russia.

But despite Bolshevism and other obstacles that are continually cropping up to occupy the attention of the peace conference, it is understood that the delegates have made further progress in the past twenty-four hours toward final peace terms than in any other single day in a week.

Practically only two big questions remain before the first peace treaty is ready:

1. Reparation.
2. How far the military authority of the League of Nations will extend.

58 BAY STATE WAR VETERANS RETURN

Shortage of Proper Food in French Transport Denounced by Officer

By JAMES P. LANEHART.

New York, March 25.—Casual Company 1893, composed of one officer and fifty-seven Massachusetts enlisted men, all of whom saw from six to eighteen months of active service with the American Expeditionary Forces, returned here today on the French liner Venezia, from Marseilles. The troops arrived a hungry and disgruntled lot after a fourteen-day voyage, and according to Captain F. G. Parry, a coast artillery officer, he was compelled to put mess Sergeants at work in all of the kitchens to obtain suitable food for the men. A boat which preceded the Venezia out of Marseilles hit a mine and sank. Twelve of her crew were killed and thirty-four wounded. Among the Massachusetts men aboard the Venezia were:

Private Walter W. Greenhalt, 4th Trench Mortar Battery, Boston; Private William Nedvins, 167th Infantry, Boston; Private James F. Crowley, 306th Infantry, Somerville; Private Samuel Petrucci, 23d Infantry, Hyde Park; Private Francis H. Eustis, 6th Engineers, Newton; Corporal Thomas A. Ahearn, 39th Infantry, Worcester; Private Morris Kleine, 5d Ammunition Train, Chelsea; Musician Frank Fichera, general hand school, Boston, and Captain Perry.

Private Russell M. Everett, of Watertown, N. Y., who arrived on the Venezia, bringing his French bride, is the only American army private known to have been the guest of King George of England, at Buckingham Palace. Everett accompanied the presidential party to England and to Italy.

When he left England, King George presented him a pair of cuff links, bearing his monogram and the seal of the royal British house.

CHAMBER WITH PETERS ON TAX LIMIT

Would Spend 65 Cents of Extra Dollars on Street and Limit Increase to One Year

Boston's Chamber of Commerce was today placed on record before the legislative committee on metropolitan affairs, as favoring increasing the tax limit by 12 for the year ever, that 65 cents of the dollar be spent on street construction. Also the limit was placed on one year, because beginning next year the Boston elevated deficiency, which the taxpayers will be compelled to make up, will range according to experts, from 20 cents to $4 per thousand.

The Peters bill provides for three dollars increase this year, two dollars next year and one dollar the year following. Strong opposition developed against this ration by real estate interests. They asserted that further taxation will prov a death blow to real estate interests.

L. D. Towle, a real estate owner, told the committee he was assessed for more than three million dollars of real estate in Boston. Excessive tax rates, with increased cost of materials and labor, had stopped further real estate ventures.

E. M. Bradley also strongly opposed the measure of raising the tax limit on real estate. R. L. Delano of the Dorchester Board of Trade was also heard in opposition.

MULLEN PROTESTS STATE CHARGING FOR ARMORY

Former Mayor Mullen of Everett has protested to the adjutant-general the action of the State authorities in charging the citizens of Everett for the use of the State Armory for a reception to the returning soldiers tonight. He declares that in addition to the charge by the State, an additional charge of $10 is made for cleaning up the building after the dinner.

IT'S WEAR LIKE THIS THAT CUTS YOUR SHOE EXPENSE

Stepping on small pieces of hot metal, walking on sharp chips of tin, standing in hot sand—these, and other harsh conditions of walking surfaces in a steel plant, have no apparent effect on Neolin Soles. So says R. J. Doty, plant superintendent of the Sivyer Steel Casting Company, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

"The best oak tanned leather soles last about three weeks under the abuse given them in the foundry. While I have been wearing a pair of Neolin Soles for more than three months. As to all appearances, they are as good as when first put on my shoes," says Mr. Doty.

Only Neolin Soles can resist wear and abuse like this. They are created by Science to be very tough and durable — flexible and waterproof, too. To reduce your own shoe expense, and to cut the family shoe bills, buy Neolin-soled shoes. You can get them in many styles for men, women, and children.

And have your worn shoes re-bottomed with Neolin Soles. These long-wearing soles are manufactured by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, Ohio, who also make Wingfoot Heels—guaranteed to outlast all other heels.

HALLET COUNSEL ATTACKS MARRIAGE PETITION IN HARDY SUIT

SIGNATURE TO PAPER DENIED

Hallett's Name Written by Another Hand, Charges Lawyer in $50,000 Case

Hints that the signature of the late Daniel E. Hallett was added to a marriage application after the application bl been filed were conveyed today by Hugh D. McLellan in the suit of Mrs. Maxine J. Hardy for $50,000 against the Hallett estate.

McLellan is counsel f.. the defendant, Daniel S. Hallett, father of the deceased. Mrs. Hard claims that she was betrothed to Hallett and that he had promised her half his estate of $150,000.

The case is being tried in the Suffolk Superior Court before Judge McLaughlin and a jury.

The first two witnesses were Joseph Hayden, clerk and investigator of the Boston registry of births and marriages; and Joseph M. Ludden, another employe of the bureau. Mrom examination of Mrs. Hardy was interrupted to allow these two witnesses to testify and go back to their duties.

OCCUPATION OF "FARMER."

The marriage application contained the names of Maxine J. Hardy and Daniel E. Hallett. It was taken out January 5, 1917, about a year before Hallett's death. Under direct examination, Hayden testified that a man had appeared to make the application. He was unable to identify a protograph shown him of Hallett. He said that in his recollection there was nothing out of the ordinary about the applicant, but he remembered the case because the man had given his occupation as "farmer."

"I thought it strange," witness said, "that a farmer should be living at No. 256 West Newton street, Boston."

The question, "If a man appeared to be drunk would you grant him a marriage license?" was objected to and excluded.

The matter of the signature was a prominent feature of the testimony.

DENY HALLETT SIGNATURE.

Attorney McLellan declared:

"We contend that what purports to be Daniel E. Hallett's signature was not written by him. We shall contend that the signature and the word 'Boston' were not in the certificate in October, 1918, when the 'tiffeate in October, 1918, when was filed, a photograph taken of it."

The photograph of the application was introduced as Exhibit 3.

Under redirect examination Hayden testified that the book he took the applicant's signature appeared in always in the possession of the city registrar's office and is never shown to anyone in the absence of a clerk. He testified that to the best of his recollection the applicant for the marriage was not intoxicated.

Judge Loudden testified that he administered the oath to the applicant and that the man was not intoxicated. He stated that he would refuse to administer an oath to a drunken man.

Cross-examining Mrs. Hardy, Attorney McLellan called attention to the "P" in this and in the purported signature of Hallett in the marriage application. He showed also other specimens of handwriting.

Mrs. Hardy, under cross-examination, admitted one divorce from Lauren Meyer, to whom she was married in 1890 and 1901. The divorce to which she testified was filed in the Fall of 1902 and was granted in 1903, she said. She did not explain why a second marriage had taken place.

McLellan brought out in testimony that on the marriage license, which was returned as unused, the number of Mrs. Hardy's marriages was given as two; that she was characterized as "widow," and that the printed word, "divorced," had been stricken out.

Hayden testified that the line scoring out the word had been drawn by Miss M. McCarthy, employed in the registrar's office.

REPORT ELSIE FRENCH VANDERBILT IS TO WED

By CHOLLY KNICKERBOCKER.

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

New York, March 25.—Have you heard the report that Mrs. French Vanderbilt is thinking of remarrying?

Of course, I cannot say just how much truth there is in the story, but not a few of the former Elsie French's friends have her on the verge of becoming Mrs. George Munro Woolsey. Woolsey is a well-known clubman, and his fellow club members in the Knickerbocker and Brook Clubs profess to have no knowledge of his attentions to the first wife of the late Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt.

Mrs. Vanderbilt has been devoting a large part of her time to war relief work, but lately has been making weekly trips from Newport to this city.

Quite frequently on these trips I have encountered Mrs. Vanderbilt and Mr. Woolsey together, so who can tell?

Time alone, I suppose.

Anti-Rooster Drive Is Denounced as Unpatriotic

Chan. T. Icleer of the Germantown section of West Roxbury, member of one of the leading families of the country, made vigorous protest today against the movement of the city board of health to abolish roosters in his residential district.

Mr. Icleer—familiarly known as "Chan"—was comfortably perched upon a garden gate. He observed:

"This anti-rooster drive makes me sick. It is unpatriotic in the first place. It is most unlikely just now, when the daylight saving law is coming around for its second Summer. And I am not sure but what it will reflect unfavorably upon the woman suffrage cause.

"Some persons object to roosters crowing. Why, this is the time to crow. Uncle Sam and all his family are crowing about what America did in the war. The Yankee Nation is coming home and everybody around here is crowing with joy over the prospect of seeing the boys again. The roosters' class yell of 'Cock-a-Doodle-Doo' is the nearest thing in nature to 'Yankee-Doodle-Doo.'

"Daylight saving is due again next Sunday. The public is to save daylight by getting up an hour early. The crowing of the family rooster will help them get up if they oversleep.

"There is a feminist angle to this matter, too. A hen has a small brain. It takes all her intelligence to lay eggs and keep out from under passing automobiles. A flock of hens, without the firm, guiding masculine mind, would be a mess of jealousy, eternal dissension and inevitable anarchy. The feminist movement can be overdone and this is one of the examples."

"You'll have to excuse me now," concluded Mr. Icleer, as down from his perch, "I just noticed that fresh young Wyandotte Cockerel flirting with one of my wives. He's been reading about this League of Nations and he thinks that he's going to exercise self-determination. But he's all wrong, Friend, he's all wrong."

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG'S HUSBAND TO WED AGAIN

CONGRESSMAN'S WEDDING LONG KEPT SECRET

Nashua, N. H., March 25.—Social circles of New Hampshire were buzzing today in an effort to solve the mystery which enshrouds the reported marriage of Congressman Edward H. Wason, because of his wealth and social and political position long regarded as the State's most eligible bachelor.

Mrs. Horace A. Whitney of Manchester was thought to have solved the mystery when she admitted that her daughter, Miss Susie Whitney, ago twenty-five years, had been married to the Congressman several years ago.

The young woman's father for a long time has been employed as a night watchman at the Amoskeag Mills in Manchester. Neighbors of the Whitneys said that immediately after their marriage in a distant city Congressman Wason and his bride took up their residence in the large home in Lowell, Mass. Last Winter, they said, the Lowell place was closed and the couple went to Washington. Why the Congressman desires his wife to remain incognito is the subject of much speculation.

She is of medium height, athletic of build, and is considered exceptionally good-looking.

Congressman Wason at his home here, when told of the report in Manchester, refused to break his silence on the subject, except to remark that the name of the woman mentioned in the report was not Whitney, intimating that she had been married before. Congressman Wason is fifty-two years of age.

The Wason matrimonial tangle recalls the fact that the late Congressman Cyrus A. Sullowav, long a picturesque figure in the national House of Representatives, startled his friends by marrying as his second wife a "Hallelujah lassie," as the Salvation Army calls its girl members. Always the Congressman made an earnest friend of that organization.

SEEK PRETTY MODEL IN WILKINS TRAGEDY

Audrey Munson, famed for her perfect figure, who was told, it is said, by Dr. Wilkins, she would lose it if she married, and who is now sought by police to throw light on the murder of Mrs. Wilkins.

Mineola, N. Y., March 25.—Miss Audrey Munson, a beautiful young motion picture actress and artist's model, is depended upon by District Attorney Charles R. Weeks to clear up one important point concerning the relations between Dr. and Mrs. Walter Kerr Wilkins, and the model's testimony may prove of importance at the trial of the doctor, accused of murdering his wife—if she can be located.

Miss Munson's name was revealed by District-Attorney Weeks when, his own efforts having failed, he asked the newspapers to aid in finding her. Representatives of his office had been searching for traces of the woman for several days, without success.

Miss Munson and her mother had rooms in a house owned by Mrs. Wilkins in West Sixty-fifth street. Several months before the date of Mrs. Wilkins' murder at Long Beach, L. I., February 27, the actress and her mother left the Wilkins town house.

ADVISED AGAINST MARRYING.

The reason ascribed for their departure was a remark said to have been made to the girl by Dr. Wilkins, and which both Mrs. Munson and her daughter resented. Some one who overheard the remark informed Mr. Weeks that the physician said:

"Don't ever get married, because if you do you will lose your symmetrical figure."

District Attorney Weeks wishes to learn from the pretty model just how much interest Dr. Wilkins displayed toward her and whether and to what extent it was resented by Mrs. Wilkins.

NO CLEWS TO ROBBERS.

"I am sure there were no burglars in the house of Dr. and Mrs. Wilkins on the night of the murder," District Attorney Weeks declared.

He refused to enlarge upon his statement, but it is believed to be based upon evidence unearthed by detectives. There have been absolutely no clews to robbers.

Mrs. Wilkins' body was exhumed from Lakeview cemetery, Middle Village, Long Island, for the purpose of securing her finger prints. They are to be compared with finger prints beside a doorway in the Long Beach house with emphasis that he "must have ready cash."

BELIEVE PRETTY CLINTON BRIDE OF 17 SLAIN

Police of New England Cities Asked to Aid in Search of Girl Missing Since March 2

The police of Boston, Worcester and other eastern cities will be asked by Police Chief John F. McGee of Clinton to make systematic search for Mrs. Jennie Navroll of Clinton, only seventeen years old and of high type of Italian beauty, whose mysterious absence now causes suspicion that she has been murdered.

Chief McGee and a detail of patrolmen dug in the cellar of the Navroll home at No. 607 Main street in Clinton, but their excavation revealed nothing.

FEAR FOUL PLAY.

"Every circumstance about the case," says Chief McGee, "makes us suspicious that it is a murder similar to scores of others which have occurred in different parts of the country in the last few years. While every effort is being made to locate the girl through ordinary channels, we shall work on the theory of a possible murder and that the body has been disposed of somewhere in Clinton.

"Circulars bearing the picture of Mrs. Navroll are to be sent to police throughout the East and all police resources will be turned toward locating her, if she is alive."

Mrs. Navroll is the wife of Sabatline Navroll, a thrifty resident of Clinton. On March 12 Navroll reported to the police that his young wife had been missing from home since March 2. He explained that he thought she had merely been visiting, so he delayed reporting her absence in expectation of her return.

PLANNED VACATION TRIP.

On March 14 the husband left Clinton. It was reported that he had gone in search of his wife and that he had not returned home. But it was also reported in Clinton today that he was seen in the town last Saturday night, and that he drew $1,500 from a Clinton savings bank about the time he reported his wife's disappearance. He had broken off plans he and his wife had of a vacation trip to Italy. It was also reported, in this connection, that Mrs. Navroll was strongly opposed to such a trip.

TWO HELD IN FEUD VICTIM'S DEATH

Waltham Men Arraigned in Connection With Alleged Slaying of Gracessa

Charged with the murder of Luigi Gracessa, whose stabbed body was found floating in the Charles River, two men were arraigned today in the Waltham Court. They are Dominic Parisel, twenty-six, of Newton street, and Rosaria Papia, twenty-five, of No. 121 Pine street, both of Waltham.

They were not asked to plead, but were held for a hearing April 8. An additional charge of carrying a concealed weapon was lodged against Parisel. The entire proceedings occupied scarcely three minutes.

The Middlesex Grand Jury sits in the meantime and the police said that the evidence might be placed before the Grand Jury in anticipation of the continued hearing.

Gracessa's body, found Sunday night by two boys, was not identified until the following day. Gracessa lived in Maynard and had been married only twelve days when murdered. His death is believed to have been the result of a long standing feud among foreign residents in Waltham. It was established by the authorities that he had given testimony for the government in a murder trial about a year ago.

TEACHER TO BE QUESTIONED ON 'WATER CURE'

Wellesley Board to Take Up Schoolboy's Complaint Tonight

Following the "water cure" inflicted on Henry Fahey, Wellesley High School boy, by members of the student council, A. G. McCartney, one of the teachers, will be questioned tonight by the selectmen in a special session.

At a private hearing following the weekly meeting of the board, Mr. McCartney will be asked to state whither, as alleged, he stood by and watched the boys strip Fahey of his clothes and douse him under a cold shower; and, if he did so, why.

Mr. McCartney, besides being a teacher in the high school, is a special police officer of Wellesley. As such, it is contended by sympathizers of the Fahey boy, he failed in his duty to prevent violence.

The affair is already being investigated by school authorities. It grew out of a prank, in which some one sounded a "clicker" during school hours. Because the offender would not confess, the entire class was kept after school. Members of the student council asked the principal for permission to punish the boy they believed to be guilty, and, it is said, carried the Fahey boy forcibly to the basement where they stripped and doused him.

According to Fahey, the principal and Mr. McCartney sanctioned and watched the proceedings.

Fellow students said that Fahey had a reputation as a disorderly pupil and that his past school record counted against him with members of the student council.

MILLIONS CHEER PARADE OF 27TH IN NEW YORK

Greatest Celebration Ever Witnessed in City as Troops March Up 5th Avenue

By International News Service.

New York, March 25.—Greater New York paid homage today to the 27th Division (former National Guard), the fighting sons of the Empire State who smashed the Hindenburg line.

Less than two years ago this same division marched quietly down Fifth avenue on the first leg of its long journey to France and the great world war. Today it returned to parade the famous thoroughfare once gain and to receive a welcome home, the like of which New York has never witnessed.

A gun caisson bearing a casket draped with the colors and graced with a single wreath paid silent tribute to the 1,972 brave boys who marched away never to return.

The parade started shortly after 10 o'clock and the great crowd which lined Fifth avenue from Washington square, where the pageant started, to One Hundred and Tenth street, where it ended, was estimated at nearly two million.

While the famous avenue was a sea of waving flags and bunting. Decorations for the occasion cost in the neighborhood of $750,000, and the oldest New Yorker admitted that he had never seen anything to compare with this celebration.

Fully equipped with bayonets fixed and steel helmets set cockily atilt, the first of the 27,000-odd heroes swung into step at Washington square and advanced up Fifth avenue, led by their commander, Major-General John F. O'Ryan, and his staff, a police band and escort and the flag-draped caisson.

The pageant was reviewed at Eighty-second street by Governor Alfred E. Smith, Mayor John F. Hylan and other State and city officials. At Tenth street General O'Ryan reviewed his men.

Hotel men estimated that nearly 500,000 visitors from upstate cities were here and as they day was proclaimed a holiday in the Greater City traffic on all lines of transportation was jammed almost to a standstill. visitors who could not obtain accommodations slept in subway, elevated and tube stations.

NEWBURY'S WIFE IN HOTEL WITH SOLDIER, SAYS WITNESS

Q—Did you ever go back there to live? A.—We never did.

Q.—When did you leave Mrs. Newbury? A.—The last time we lived together was August 20, 1917.

The witness said that he was with Mrs. Newbury almost constantly for five weeks, following her operation for appendicitis and left her finally on November 17, 1917.

Q.—Did you know Billy Duggan? A.—He was instructor at the roller skating rink which Mrs. Newbury frequented.

Q.—Did you ever see him at your house? A.—I saw him three times at my house. One night when I returned unexpectedly, I found Duggan there. My wife wore a light gown and had loose kimona. They were sitting together on the same couch. Another time I returned unexpectedly and found them sitting on the steps.

Q.—In the Spring of 1917 you were seriously ill with an eye trouble? A.—It started in February and I was unable to return to business until December.

James R. Wood, of Allston, was the first witness called. He is a detective employed by Newbury to trail his wife. He testified to seeing Mrs. Newbury and Billy Duggan at an athletic event at Lawrence on April 6, 1918.

SAW THEM LEAVE THE TRAIN.

Q.—What was the event? A.—A professional polo game. Duggan played rush with Lawrence. I saw Mrs. Newbury right after the game. Duggan wore the chevrons of a corporal, he was in his army uniform. He came out of the rink and got into an automobile with Mrs. Newbury. They drove to the South Lawrence station. I drove to the north station and arrived before their train did.

Q.—Did you see the parties again? A.—I saw them leave the train and come through the gate.

Q.—Where did they go then? A.—To the Lucerne Hotel. I remained in the automobile. They remained in the hotel a few minutes then came out and walked down Causeway street. They went as far as Haymarket square, where they made inquiries of a police officer. Then they walked up Washington street.

Q.—Did they have any baggage? A.—A small, patent leather, overnight case, I think.

Q.—Where did they go then? A.—To the Quincy House. Corporal Duggan went to the desk, I could see him through the window. I called Mr. Newbury, and with Howard Brown and other detectives went to the Quincy House. We registered, put our coats in the room, and then went to Room 461. We knocked, and were admitted to the room by Corporal Duggan.

Q.—Was there some conversation before the door was opened? A.—There was.

WAS WEARING NIGHTROBE.

Q.—How was Duggan dressed? A.—In his undershirt. There was one bed in the room, and it had been disturbed. Mrs. Newbury came out of the bathroom wearing her nightrobe.

Q.—Was there any conversation? A.—There was. Corporal Duggan said to Mr. Newbury, "Tommy, I'd like to talk to you." Mrs. Newbury also heard that she would like to talk to him, and asked him to step into the bathroom. She also asked me if the hotel people had been notified.

Q.—Did you notice any handkerchief on the bed? A.—There was a handkerchief, with a mourning band, under one pillow. Mrs. Newbury was dressed in what you might call mourning at the time, that is, she was wearing black.

Q.—Was there any talk about Mrs. Newbury's clothes? A.—Yes; Mrs. Newbury asked someone to hand her her clothes, in the bathroom.

Witness stated that the party remained in the room ten or fifteen minutes and that they all left together.

Ralph E. Owen of Chelsea, another detective, gave corroborative testimony. He was one of the detectives in the party with Woods who saw Corporal Duggan in Lawrence. Owen said that he did not see Mrs. Newbury, but that he heard a woman's voice come from an automobile calling." Come on, Billy, or else you will miss that train." He saw them go into the Hotel Lucerne and the Quincy House in Boston.

REGISTERED MARRIED COUPLE.

Q.—Could you see anything that was written on the register? A.—I saw that he had written, "Corporal and Mrs. Duggan, Ayer, Mass." They were assigned to Room 451.

Owen said that he was with Wood when they entered the room. He said, "There was a double bed, disturbed, and a handkerchief with a black border under the pillow. There was also a container with bottles of either beer or ginger ale, I don't know which."

Under cross-examination, witness said he had never seen Mrs. Newbury before.

Walter F. Ilkeman of Allston was next called. His testimony corroborated that of the previous witness.

Cross-examined by Attorney Thurston, Q.—When you entered the room, was there some talk about Mrs. Newbury jumping out of a bathroom window? A.—There was some talk about a bathroom window, yes, sir.

Q.—And Mrs. Newbury said something about being disturbed because her husband and Howard Brown were there? A.—Well, Mrs. Newbury was somewhat disturbed, yes, sir.

Q.—Did you hear Mrs. Newbury say something to her husband about "the least he could do was to hand her some clothes" and that "he was the last person in the world who ought to attempt anything like that"? A.—I don't remember.

WASN'T LICENSED THEN.

Q.—You are a detective? A.—I was an operator that night. I didn't have a license to be a detective.

Q.—Oh, I see. If you were a detective you could remember better than you could as an operator?

Howard W. Brown, brother-in-law of Thompson Newbury, a lawyer at No. 70 State street, Boston, with a home in Brookline, was next called. The witness said that he was called by telephone on the night of April 6, 1918, and that in company with the detectives and Thompson Newbury, he went to the Quincy House.

Mr. Brown testified to seeing Mrs. Newbury and Duggan in the room at the Quincy House. His testimony was along the lines of previous witnesses.

Cross-examined:

Q.—Are you the guiding spirit in the divorce libel, Mr. Brown? A.—I am not.

Mr. Brown said that he was one of the executors of the estate of C. T. Newbury, who died on March 1, 1918, and that Thompson Newbury was the other executor. The estate totalled nearly $550,000, according to the estimate filed in the income tax returns.

Q.—And there are only two heirs? A.—Only two—Thompson Newbury and my wife.

Q.—And the will of C. T. Newbury was a great disappointment to you, was it not, Mr. Brown? Exceptions taken by Attorney Knowlton, sustained by the court.

RECALLED NO TROUBLE.

Q.—You remember when Mr. and Mrs. Newbury were married? A.—Yes, sir. Mrs. Brown and I have not seen much of them for the past four years.

Q.—Your relations with Mrs. Newbury were cordial? A.—My relations with Mrs. Newbury were always cordial. There have been times when relations have not been cordial between Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Newbury.

Q.—Was there a family party at the Wampanoag Inn, after which Mrs. Newbury refused to speak to you for six months. A.—I never had any "row" with Mrs. Newbury, and I recall no trouble at the Wampanoag Inn.

Q.—When did Mr. Newbury start living with his wife? A.—I am not certain of the date, but I think it was in 1917. He took an automobile trip and told me he was not going to live with her any more.

Q.—At the time Mr. Newbury told you he was starting on his automobile trip, did he tell you why he wanted to leave her? A.—He said he could not stand living with her, that he wanted to be free of her and that he wanted a divorce.

MRS. NEWBURY ENTERS COURT.

At this point Mrs. Newbury entered the court, accompanied by a woman companion. There was a stir in the courtrom as the slender, black-robed figure came quietly forward. Mrs. Newbury is in deep mourning. She wears a long veil, with a close face veil that enhances her blonde beauty. A full length black coat, over a gown of silk, and black gloves completes her costume.

"COSSACKS" GO ON DUTY AT DEVENS

Fifteen Posts Established in New Police System at Ayer Camp

By THOMAS F. PHELAN.

Camp Devens, Ayer, March 25.—Fifteen "Cossack Posts," established here today by command of Major-General McCain, mark a new departure in training camp activities. Each post consists of a non-commissioned officer and three men. They will circulate throughout the camp, relieved at intervals, and constitute a new and effective method of policing.

The plan was launched by Colonel A. G. Lott, executive officer. It will mean not only better patrolling of the camp, but also that Yankee Division men on their arrival here will not get lost in trying to locate their barracks. The entire roster of the posts numbers 250 men, who will alternate on duty. Eight companies of the 26th Infantry will furnish the men. The plan will be watched with unusual interest by military authorities elsewhere.

Charges have recently been made that empty barracks in certain sections have been used by civilians and others for recreational purposes. The new system will enable the authorities to keep posted on such activities, and also to check up men who are tardy in reporting before "Taps." The Cossack Posts will not interfere with the duties of the Provost Guard.

First Lieutenant Clarence W. Trendell has been appointed acting provost marshal in the absence of Major Frederick W. Boye, 151st Depot Brigade.

Additional detachments from Camp Merritt and elsewhere arrived today and were assigned quarters at the Depot Brigade.

regarding the big wire receptacle for floral tributes is meeting with much favor. It is conceded to be just as effective a way of showing respect as either more spectacular but also more depressing.

The tentative announcement today of the probable date of the parade would be was the first official announcement anything any time for the big event. Northeastern Department officers are inclined to believe that General Edwards' prediction as to the date will be borne out.

MEMORIAL DAY REQUEST.

The former commander of the 26th Division today made a request that all Decoration Day exercises this year be of exceptional solemnity, in memory of the boys of his old command who were killed in France.

The Hotel Rexford in Bulfinch Place has been offered by the Salvation Army for the billeting of troops. Captain Henry D. Cormerais has reported the offer to Colonel Albert S. Williams, chief of staff of the Northeastern Department.

A number of army motor trucks have been obtained already for the transportation of men from Camp Devens to Boston on the day of the parade.

101st Regiment Goes to Brest in Start on Homeward Journey

By BERT FORD.

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Ecommoy, France, March 24, via Paris, March 25.—In the midst of a heavy rainstorm the 101st Infantry Regiment of the 26th Division, Boston's "pet" unit, left the Le Mans area today for the forwarding camp on the outskirts of Brest, preparatory to sailing for the United States at the end of this month.

Units scheduled to sail on April 14 still cling to the hope that they can go home in a single body.

The first 15,000 of the 26th, or "Yankee" Division swiftly entrained, all happy over the present step in the homeward journey.

Only three members of the 101st were with the old 9th Infantry in the Spanish-American war: Colonel Logan, Lieutenant-Colonel John J. Barry and Sergeant Edward J. White (the last named living at No. 41 Philbrick street, Roslindale, Mass.).

White, who is the father of eight children, went through the war without getting a scratch.

Colonel Barry joined the 9th Regiment in 1884; Sergeant White in 1892, and Colonel Logan in 1897.

Lieutenant-Colonel John D. Murphy of Brookline, Mass., division machine gun officer, who was recently awarded the distinguished service cross, has just been decorated with the French war cross.

The Rev. George S. L. Connor, Holyoke, corps chaplain of the American Army of Occupation, has joined the Yankee Division and been assigned to the 101st Infantry.

COLE TELLS OF SALE OF FISH TRAWLERS

Cross-Examined by Attwill Regarding Bay State Company Disposal

Harrison Cole of South Weymouth, member of the United States Shipping Board and formerly in charge of trawlers of the Bay State Fishing Company, resumed his testimony before Judge Sanderson today at the fish hearing in the Superior Court. Cross-examination was taken up by Attorney-General Henry C. Attwill.

Cole was asked about conversations with Joseph Rich in which Mr. Rich said he was interested in entering the fish business and the purchase of trawlers, and declared that he might purchase the trawlers of the Bay State Company. Mr. Cole told of a conversation with Mr. F. C. Dumaine, in which, Mr. Cole said, he informed him of the understanding to purchase the Bay State Company's trawlers. Mr. Dumaine, according to Cole, was willing to meet the persons interested in the purchase and about a month later the sale took place, witness said.

It was brought out that Mr. Cole met Dyer and Rich on the same afternoon in the lobby of Young's Hotel when Joseph Paine also was present.

INFORMED OF SALE.

On the following day, Cole testified, Dumaine informed him of the sale of the Bay State Company, but today Mr. Cole could no recall the terms of the sale as outlined to him by Mr. Dumaine at the time it took place. Mr. Cole said he was interested in the sale and that he was a stockholder in the Bay State Company. He said he held ten shares of common stock and a few shares of preferred.

In a conversation in Young's Hotel between witness and Mr. Rich, it was brought out, Mr. Rich expressed his desire for the formation of a new company to purchase trawlers, buy storage facilities for the distribution of fish mainly to stores on the Fish Pier. Mr. Attwill questioned Mr. Cole as to whether anyone at the meeting in the Ames building stated to witness that the property which he voted by proxy to convey was to be conveyed subsequently to a corporation to be formed in Maine.

REPLIES IN NEGATIVE.

The Maine corporation was to be capitalized at $200,000, with flotation of $500,000 first preferred and $2,595,- in common stock. Mr. Cole replied in the negative.

Attorney General Attwill introduced a copy of the notice of the stockholders' meeting in the Ames building dated May 10, 1916, in which reference was made to negotiations for the sale of assets.

Cole was asked what he received by the sale of the Bay State Company and said he received $150 a share on his common stock and $15 a share in dividends.

At the afternoon session further inquiry was made by Mr. Attwill into the circumstances surrounding the construction of steam trawlers, and later Mr. Cole was questioned by Henry S. Hurlburt, counsel for the defence.

Policemen Object to Regular Pay for Strike Duty

All the "sleuthing" ability of the Malden police is being concentrated upon the solving of the mystery of their missing pay checks. The checks were for $5 and made out to each member of the department who assisted in strike duty at Haverhill several days ago. But when pay day came around there were no checks in the policemen's pay envelops.

Instead, the envelopes contained one extra day's pay at regular Malden rates. Inasmuch as there is an appreciable difference between $5 a day strike duty pay and their regular daily pay, a howl was heard from the policemen.

12,000 DEFIANT STRIKERS SWEEP LAWRENCE

Big Demonstration Staged as Reply to Mill Owners; Several Shots Fired

Arlington section by Marshal O'Brien and the crowd moved readily enough, keeping to parade formation, however. The thousands preceded down Essex street to the business section, and through side streets to Lawrence Common.

At the lower end of Common street, where most of the operatives live, there was a concentration of operatives and their sympathizers without parallel since the present dispute began. The police drove into the crowd and forced it to break, while from the centre of the concourse came repeated revolver shots. Of these the police took no notice, but addressed themselves to the task of clearing the street.

A. J. Muste announced that a new union, to be known as the American Textile Union Workers' Union, would beformed among the strikers and would have headquarters in Essex street. This union may later affiliate with the Amalgamated Clothing Makers of the World.

Alexander Tarsouly returned to Lawrence today with a new plan, which he did not divulge, but took him to the police station to inquire how much out-of-town police were paid.

Mrs. Glendower Evans appeared today, but not during the disorder. She said she had been misrepresented, that the alleged brutality of the police was a fact, and that she particularly wanted to get the disinterested outside world to know of this brutality.

CHAIN STORES CUT FISH PRICE TO 5 CENTS

Another big chain of stores has joined the American to prove that fish can be sold at five cents a pound retail.

Today the Mohican Company, which operates a chain of twenty stores in New England, is selling fish at six cents a pound. Tomorrow they announce they will sell fish at five cents a pound.

The American fish stores have for weeks been selling fish throughout the city and New England for five cents a pound. The Mohican Company by reducing its price shows, if any proof were needed, just what the American has maintained and demonstrated—that fish can be sold at five cents a pound and that the public should not pay more for it.

Fresh haddock	6 cents
Steak cod	10 cents
Flounders	5 cents
Mackerel	17 cents

This company will carry these prices or even lower ones in their twenty New England stores, some of which are in those cities where the Boston American is also selling fish at five cents per pound.

The reduction by the Mohican markets is the first admission by fish dealers of the truth of the contention of the Boston American that fish can be sold for five cents at a profit.

The wholesale price of fish quoted yesterday was four and one-half cents per pound. Allowing three-eighths of a cent for a barrel, one-quarter cent per pound for cartage, one-quarter cent for scaling, it will be seen that a profit per pound can be made at today's retail quotation of six cents.

Interest in the Boston American Fish Stores, where tons of frozen fish are being sold at cost, becomes more widespread each day. Business increases steadily. More fish is being sold and consumed through these stores than was ever sold here before.

These stores lowered the price of fish where whole series of official investigations, trials and court cases failed to.

The Boston American stores have succeeded where petitions, threats and prosecution did not secure lower and reasonable prices. Today the public can buy fish at cost—and the people are responding by eating more fish than ever before. Every day has become a fish day wherever Boston American Fish Stores have been opened.

The task of supplying the tremendous public demand for fish becomes more gigantic daily. Not only must more and more fish be supplied, but new facilities are constantly asking that stores be established.

Every pound of fish you eat is a net gain to the land!

PROMOTE GEN. EDWARDS, SAYS CITY COUNCIL

The general demand for suitable recognition of the splendid war services of Major-General Clarence R. Edwards, commander of the "Yankee" Division through most of its battle career in the World War, such as has been steadily advocated by the Boston American, is officially indorsed by the Boston City Council.

The Council has unanimously adopted a resolution calling upon the War Department to reward General Edwards with promotion in rank. He holds his present rank for duration of the war.

The Edwards resolution was introduced by Councillor James A. Watson and read as follows:

"It is the opinion of the City Council of Boston that Major-General C. R. Edwards, whose heroic and humanitarian conduct as commander of the 26th Division of the United States Army on the battlefields of France, in the cause of democracy and freedom, is well known, should obtain recognition from the War Department, and that the Secretary of War be requested to advance him in position in token of his services to the cause of humanity."

The American has printed many letters and statements from Boston and New England admirers of General Edwards, calling for due recognition of his services by advancement in rank and by award of the Distinguished Service Medal.

QUINCY HEARD FROM.

Quincy is one of the latest districts to be heard in this patriotic respect. Leading men of that city, which gave two Presidents to the nation, expressed themselves vigorously today in favor of suitable recognition for the former commander of the gallant Twenty-sixth Division. Among the statements made were the following:

Mayor Joseph L. Whiton of Quincy: "I feel that the War Department must recognize and have a keen appreciation of the valiant service that was rendered by General Edwards. I would not be surprised if one of the features in connection with the arrival of the Twenty-sixth will be the announcement that General Edwards is to be given the decoration and rank he deserves and will not have to become one of the world's unnamed heroes."

Senator David S. McIntosh of Quincy, elected from the Plymouth and Norfolk districts, said: "You may put me on record as being heartily in favor of according General Edwards the honors that are certainly due him. No one, surely, questions the fact that he was one of the most popular leaders that served with the boys overseas."

John H. Johnson of Wollaston, head of the Ward Five Committee of Welcome to Returning Soldiers, said: "I am strongly in favor of giving more recognition to General Edwards from every standpoint, not only because of his service as commander of our 26th Division, but from his qualities as a leader, as is shown from the fact that every soldier in the New England Division, from the doughboy to the high officers, reverenced him. My boy is in that division."

ENDORSED BY LODGE.

William A. Bradford of Quincy City Council, said: "If the War Department have any extra honors to divide among those who participated in the great world conflict, I feel personally that our General Edwards should receive every recognition it can give. I think that the fact that Senator Lodge endorses the movement is reason enough to commend it."

George T. Magee, editor Quincy Patriot-Ledger, said: "Nothing is too good for General Edwards; the people of New England feel this way toward him, as do the boys of the Yankee Division themselves."

Former Councilor Thomas Griffin, active on the Quincy joint committee to welcome returning soldiers, said: "I certainly am proud to be put down on the list of those in favor of honoring General Edwards. If an army man ever deserved it he does."

For practically every man has used it who has suffered from rheumatic aches, soreness of muscles, stiffness of joints, the results of weather exposure.

Women, too, by the hundreds of thousands, use it for relieving neuritis, lame backs, neuralgia, sick headache. Clean, refreshing, soothing, economical, quickly effective. Say "Sloan's Liniment" to your druggist. Get it today. 30c, 60c, $1.20.

Sloan's Liniment Kills Pain

Alkali Makes Soap Bad for Washing Hair

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified cocoanut oil, for this is pure and entirely greasless. It's very cheap and beats the most expensive soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in—about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.—Advertisement.

SLEEPWALKING PLAY RIOT OF FUN

By FRED McISAAC.

"She Walked in Her Sleep"—and thereby enabled Mark Swan to concoct a capital farce which was presented at the Plymouth Theatre last night by George Broadhurst, who knows a good farce when he sees it because he used to write that kind.

I don't know when I have heard such healthy and prolonged laughter as Walked in Her Sleep" brought forth last night. And, despite the title, so suggestive of sordidness, nothing occurs in the advertisements which boldly intimate spice, because of the laughter was the sort that was not accompanied by hushes; purely "innocent merriment," as the Milkaso used to say.

The story of "She Walks in Her Sleep" is laid on the sixteenth floor of a New York hotel. The young and pulcritudinous maiden, who slumbers vertically, was in the habit of trip lightly along a narrow leage from her chamber window into any other which might be open.

"If you remember the opera "La Somnambula," the sleep walker was able to cross the narrow bridge of a broken bridge without slipping. Of course, Mark Swan had never heard of this incident when he walked his somnambulist along a sixteenth story ledge. But never mind. If our playwrights can really amuse us, what does it matter where they get their inspiration?

This sleepwalker happened to walk into the chamber of a young man with a jealous wife, and thereby provided a series of hilarious incidents. In both cases of high excitement, which disturbed in her slumber and carried around with her, lent a spice of danger to the intrigue.

Half a dozen very amusing characters give distinction to this farce. Helen Lackaye, as a wife whose eyes have been opened and whose disposition is warped by the indiscretions of a husband named Bill, has one of the best parts of her career. Arthur Ayesworth, as the suspected and dolorous husband, was very funny, though I do think he is a bit too extravagant in his methods even for farce.

One of the special hits of the piece was Eva Williams as a Bowery chambermaid, as fresh as she was droll. Isabel Irving, as a very unusual mother-in-law who tries to cover up her son-in-law's supposed peccadillo, did a graceful piece of work, while Marjorie Davis, as the shapely sleepwalker, did a difficult role very skillfully. Robert Ober, Joseph Creehan and Walter Walker had good parts and Lelia Frost was a rather conventional ingenue.

OLGA PETROVA HEADS BILL AT KEITH'S

A bill of vaudeville designed to please the most exacting patron is offered at B. F. Keith's Theatre this week. From beginning to end it is not an "all star" show—it is better.

Olga Petrova, as a star, but an artist of unusual and highly pleasing ability, returns to Boston to greet old friends and make new ones, after an absence of more than four years.

It is almost the same Olga Petrova, changed a bit perhaps, but more likeable than ever. The simple songs she offered, one of them "There, Little Girl, Don't Cry," bear the true ring of the "tremolo touch." An excerpt from a South African play is presented as only Petrova can present such an offering.

Mat Brooks takes the leading part in a new "comedy dramalet," written by him, entitled "Dollars and Sense." Brooks is a thoroughly and pleasing actor. The miniature play is well acted and the audience voiced its approval by long and hearty applause.

Gus Van and Joe Schenck, "the cenuant-winning battery of song-land," are a decided hit. Both possess pleasing voices and their collection of song offerings is much above the average.

Harry Breen, who admits with pride that he is a Boston boy, offers a lively twenty minutes of entertainment in rapid fire song composition, and child characterization.

Kennedy and Nelson, as the "two speed boys;" Harry Laughlin and Clara West, in a skit, "The Lonesome" Toto, a "clown in Kewpieland;" Marion Harris, with pleasing songs, and Strassell's animal act complete the week's offering.

MODERN AND BEACON THEATRES — The two photoplays shown for the first time in Boston yesterday at the Modern and Beacon Theatres had the distinction of including Thos. N. Griffith's own screen production, "The Girl Who Stayed at Home." The story concerns a daughter of a Confederate veteran who lives in France. And when the war breaks out she stays at home in spite of the danger that threatens. A pretty love story mingles with the series of adventures chronicled, and with the master touches of the screen genius, Griffith, it is a production matching in quality his previous revealments. The other photoplay showed Marguerite Clark in "Three Men and a Girl," a picturing of Edward Childs Carpenter's play, "The Three Beans."

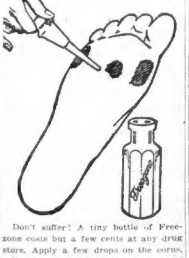
TREMONT TEMPLE—"The Heart of Humanity" began the third week of its engagement at the Tremont Temple yesterday still in strongest of favor with Boston photoplay patrons. Of the photoplays that have come out of the war this spectacle may be accounted one of the strongest, and whereas others have relied upon scenes of battle for their thrills, this takes the cause of the women to share in the great struggle is as gigantic as that of the sterner sex. The leading figure is that of a Red Cross nurse, who leaves home and children to minister to the stricken ones on the firing line of the battlefields.

ORPHEUM THEATRE — The program of vaudeville acts and motion picture features shown yesterday at Loew's Orpheum was rich in pleasure giving properties as well as variety. Heading the vaudeville bill was J. K. Emmett, son of the famous entertainer, who with Mary E. Ryan and his company presented a charming musical romance, "Wishland." Other acts on the bill were Morley & McCarthy Sisters, singers and comedians; Elsie White, character singer; Ed Rowley, comedian; Amoros and Obey, and Thierson's Dogs, a troupe of highly educated canines. On the screen there were shown the latest news pictures, a new Mack Sennet comedy, and Vivian Martin in "The Little Commander," in which she is pictured as a young girl of wealth who renounces her income and the beginning of the war to become a worker.

GLOBE THEATRE—There were two excellent photoplays presented at the Globe Theatre yesterday as the first half-week bill. "Constance Talmadge was shown in "Experimental Marriage," in which she is pictured as a wilful young woman who is not sure of the permanence of her affection. The other photoplay showed Carlyle Blackwell in "Man or Mine." For the comedy there was shown Charlie Chaplin in "The Bank."

"CALLUS CORNS" LIFT RIGHT OFF

Apply a few drops of "Freezone"—No pain!



Don't suffer! A tiny bottle of Freezone could but a few cents at any drug store. Apply a few drops on the corns, calluses and "hard skin" on bottom of feet, then lift them off.

When Freezone removes corns from the toes, or calluses from the bottom of feet, the skin beneath is left pink and healthy and never sore, tender or irritated.

Plays That Remain

SHUBERT THEATRE—The very last week of the Boston engagement of that extraordinarily successful musical comedy, "Take It From Me," began last evening at the Shubert Theatre with every indication that this will be the biggest week of all.

PARK SQUARE THEATRE—"Adam and Eva," the delightfully smart comedy written by George Middleton and Guy Bolton, began the second week at the Park Square Theatre yesterday. With the same adroitness marking their writing these authors of "Polly With a Past," show equal facility in turning the comic quip and evolving the humorous situation.

MAJESTIC THEATRE—Mary Nash, the popular star of "The Big Chance," began the second week of her visit before a large audience at the Majestic Theatre last night. "The Big Chance" is the sort of play everyone wishes to see.

WILBUR THEATRE—William Collier and his excellent company of comedians began another big week in their engagement at the Wilbur last night by delighting a house full of banking people and their friends who chose this show for their annual theatre party.

COLONIAL THEATRE—The fourteenth week of the engagement of "Sadie Love," the merry little Lonesome" Toto, a "clown in Kewpieland," Marion Harris, with pleasing songs, and Strassell's animal act complete the week's offering.

MODERN AND BEACON THEATRES — The two photoplays shown for the first time in Boston yesterday at the Modern and Beacon Theatres had the distinction of including Thos. N. "Elks Benefit Today

The gala theatrical benefit given under the auspices of the Boston Lodge of Elks is being held at the Colonial Theatre this afternoon. The proceeds are to be devoted to welcoming the returning brothers in the service of the United States. Practically every theatrical artist of note who is now in Boston appears in the bill, which assumes mammoth proportions and a capacity audience in attendance. Included in the list are Fred Stone and members of the "Jack o' Lantern" company, "Take it From Me" company, George Arliss and his company, "She Walked in Her Sleep" company, "Adam and Eva" company, Van and Schenck, Ben Hendricks, "The Rainbow Girl" company, Louise Badareco, and many others. Billie B. Van of "The Rainbow Girl" is making the announcements.

"Oh, Look!" Coming

The Dolly Sisters and Harry Fox, the most popular trio on the musical comedy stage, will come to the Shubert Theatre next Monday evening in Elliott, Comstock and Gest's newest musical comedy hit, "Oh, Look!"

WALDRON'S CASINO—Fred Irwin's Majestics are at Waldon's Casino for the week, with Frances Bennett as the leading player. Miss Bennett is popularly known as "The Blonde Beauty Singing Star," and fully fills his her personality and accomplishments. Her duo numbers, both vocal and acting with Fred Cunningham, who, by the way, is the author of the burlesques so handsomely produced by Manager Irwin, are most attractive, and made a big hit.

KAINBOW GIRL DELIGHTS AT TREMONT

That joyous, hilarious musical comedy, "The Rainbow Girl," that played to standing room for six weeks at the Colonial Theatre last season, reopened at the Tremont Theatre last night and was greeted by a full house that was entertained to its heart's content. It is scheduled to stay for a limited period of three weeks—then good-bye.

The musical numbers are refreshing and at times the melodies prove to be the cause of a delightful insanation. They are numerous, as are also the dance numbers, all of which are performed with exquisite grace and ease. The chorus is a beauty—rarely seen in the course of a season, possessing sweet, clear and harmonized voices.

The fun-making is lacking in the first scene but what follows makes up tenfold. The principal comedians are Billy B. Van, the old favorite, and Sydney Greenstreet, in the role of a butler. A better team cannot be found.

Harry Benham, favorite of the movies, is also a member of the company. Beth Lydy, "The Rainbow Girl," was admired by all.

The production as a whole is a gorgeous presentation of modern stagecraft.

The plot is built around this "Rainbow Girl," who is to marry Lord Fetherell but is really ignorant of his standing and rank in life. Gus Norton, her manager, is aware of this fact, but being bound to secrecy, does not tell her. Buck Evans, the comedian of the show in which the "Rainbow Girl" plays, is also wise, but he, too, keeps silent. The wedding takes place in the so-called green room of the theatre. This winds up the first act in splendor. From that moment interest is aroused and held until the finale.

The remainder of the play deals with the bride's affairs at the castle of her husband, and the discovery of her relationship to the butler, whose entire family of twelve constitute the servants of the Lord's household. The situations following are humorous and rollicking.

The balance of the scenes fairly bubble over with mirth and laughter. And it reaches the zenith when the mistress of the castle turns about and discharges the whole servant body when her uncle, the butler, refuses to obey her orders. Finally, an understanding comes, just as she is about to give up her marriage to the Lord as a blunder, then all is well.

"The Rainbow Girl" is a sure cure for the blues. Its pretty chorus, haunting melodies, sparkling humor and beautiful costuming form a combination hard to beat.

3 Chronic Ailments Stopped by Internal Baths

Mr. Joseph Rosenbaum, 5017 Drexel Road, Chicago, Ill., writes Tyrrell's Hygienic Institute of New York as follows:

"For many years I was a sufferer, from Rheumatism, Neuralgia and Constipation, and after trying many remedies I purchased your J. B. L. Cascade." Have been using it ten or twelve years and find it most beneficial. All the above ailments have disappeared and I now enjoy excellent health."

You can help Nature in Nature's most effectual way, by internal bathing with the "J. B. L. Cascade," and in an easy, non-habit forming manner keep the intestine as sweet and clean as Nature demands it to be for perfect health. Over half a million keen, bright, healthy Americans testify to its results.

It is the invention of Chas. A. Tyrrell, M. D., of New York, a specialist on internal bathing for 25 years, and is now being shown and explained by all Gigette Riker-Jaynes stores in New England. They will be glad to give you free on request, a booklet by Dr. Tyrrell, "Why Fat at 40 to 70 Is Only 50% Efficient," which is most interesting, and will tell you facts about yourself that you have never before realized.

FARCE WELL ACTED AT COPLEY

"Nancy & Company," four-act farce by Augustin Daly, is the bill this week at the Copley Theatre, presented by the Jewett Players. The cast includes Jessamine Newcombe, Fred W. Permain, Cameron Matthews, Phyllis Relph, Noel Leslie, H. Conway Wingfield, E. E. Clive and others.

The play is billed as "an eccentric piece." It was doubtless well named in its brevity, but now seems conventional rather than eccentric to the spectator fed up with Shaw, Brighouse, Dunnany and other moderns. Any plot, of which a single thread hangs on parental consent to marry, seems ever so old-fashioned today.

The performance was delightful. It went with the swiftness which the exaggerated situations require and an ease and security seldom found in a first-night production.

Miss Newcombe was in her best vein—charming to look upon, brilliant in dialogue and action. Her scenes with Mr. Permain and Mr. Matthews and Mr. Wingfield rank with the best work she has done here. She was ably seconded by these actors and by the rest of the cast in general.

The satire performance gave pleasure to an enthusiastic audience.

GAYETY THEATRE—Joe Hurtig's "Bowery Burlesquers" opened at the Gayety Theatre yesterday before two large audiences. The funny antics of Billy Foster and Frank Harcourt won many laughs. The two comedians are well known to the patrons of the Gayety. Foster, as Sledgehammer Doodlebeck, and Harcourt as his special doctor, go on a search for health. This forms the foundation for the plot. Grace Anderson won much applause in her rendition of several favorite songs, her greatest triumph being "Chasing Rainbows."

JOBLESS MAN SENDS $2 TO CUOZZO

Rebukes Boston and Hopes for Better Treatment for the Gallant 26th

The old familiar saying that "it's the poor that helps the poor" is practically demonstrated in a letter received from a Worcester reader of the American, who, although himself out of a job, encloses $2 for the family of Michael Cuozzo at No. 181 London street, East Boston. As told in the American, Michael Cuozzo, who is only twenty, is all at once the big brother and head of the family composed of his young wife, whom he married nine months ago when luck was on his side, and his three brothers and two little sisters. Illness obliged him to quit his job as shipfitter in the navy yard.

Michael Cuozzo has been the main support of his family since he was ten—and that was ten years ago. He has never drank or smoked in his life, finding an example of what not to do in the careless habits of his father. Several months ago Michael's father died, and his mother being ill he was afraid to inform her of her husband's death. The mother died soon after the father and shortly after that Michael Cuozzo was stricken with influenza and pleurisy. When taken to hospital his brothers and sisters were scattered.

As soon as he came out of the hospital, Michael went back to work and with his first week's pay gathered his family around him once more, but finally he had to give up. He has developed tuberculosis and will have to move to the country, where he is ready to raise chickens or pigs.

From Worcester, "an American reader writes:

"Editor Boston American:

"Dear Sir—Please see that Michael Cuozzo, No. 181 London street, East Boston, receives the enclosed two dollars.

"Charity begins at home, but if Boston's response to your recent appeal for this deserving sufferer is a criterion of your city's alertness for home charity, God help our own famous 26th after the bands and banners have ungoinced its welcome home.

"Respectfully,
"ONE OF MASSACHUSETTS' JOBLESS FELLOWS."

MRS. LA COURT HELD FOR DEATH OF HUSBAND

Becomes Hysterical and Says She Wishes to Die; Taken to Court in Taxi

Mrs. Gertrude LaCourt, who shot her husband, Louis LaCourt, twice in the back, while they were in their automobile on North street Saturday morning, went into violent hysterics when informed at Charles street jail today that her husband had died. She screamed:

"Oh, my Louis, my Louis. I didn't mean to do it. I want to die myself. I can't live without you."

Mrs. LaCourt was held without bail today, on a new charge of murder, for the April grand jury.

Peter LaCourt, uncle of the dead husband, visited Mrs. LaCourt at the jail before court time today. He is a chief carpenter's mate in the United States Navy. In civil life he was interpreter at East Boston Court and also for the East Boston Draft Board. So he is familiar with court procedure and was prepared to be of assistance to Mrs. LaCourt.

IN DELICATE HEALTH.

He found her racked from the shock of being told that her husband had succumbed to his nine bullet wounds. She is in delicate health.

She said, when told that it was time to go to court, that she did not wish to go there again, that she wanted to die.

She had been held in $15,000 yesterday on a charge of assault with intent to kill. But the death of her husband made it necessary to arraign her on a murder charge.

RIDES IN TAXICAB.

Sergeant John M. Anderson of Hanover street police station, in whose district LaCourt was shot, took her from jail to the courthouse in a taxicab.

In court she was represented by her uncle-in-law. Her mother, Mrs. Berrigan of 896 Columbia road, Dorchester, was also present.

After a conference Mrs. LaCourt was told she was charged with murder and asked if she desired to waive examination. She nodded her head.

She was taken back to the jail in a taxicab.

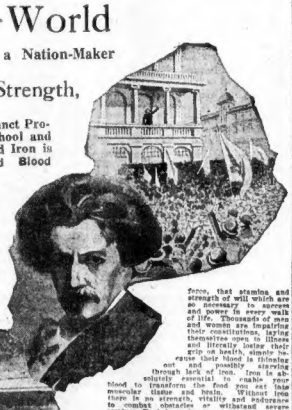
PADEREWSKI --- The Man Who Astonished the World

First As a Musical Genius—Now as a Nation-Maker Rebuilding Poland

Takes Nuxated Iron For Strength, Energy and Endurance

Dr. Kenneth K. MacAlpine, for 16 Years Adjunct Professor New York Post-Graduate Medical School and Hospital, Says That in His Opinion Nuxated Iron is The Most Valuable Tonic, Strength and Blood Builder Any Physician Can Prescribe



When Ignace Jan Paderewski, Master Pianist and Nation Maker, turned his back to the plaudits of the admiring thousands and deserted music to give his whole energy that Poland might become a free nation, he little realized the tremendous strain which would be imposed upon his health and strength. After two years of such strenuous work and intense mental effort as would have worn down the constitution of many men, Paderewski had recourse to the sustaining tonic benefits of Nuxated Iron to help rebuild his wasted forces and restore his old-time health and strength. That one of the foremost and most forceful figures of today's international life should come out frankly and publicly endorse a product which he has personally found valuable for building up the health and strength must arouse the interest of every thinking person in Nuxated Iron, which is today being used by over three million people annually to help create red blood, power and endurance.

Commenting upon the use of Nuxated Iron by Paderewski and other widely known persons Dr. Kenneth K. MacAlpine, a prominent New York surgeon and former Adjunct Professor of the New York Post-Graduate Medical School and Hospital, says:

"During sixteen years as Lecturer and Adjunct Professor of Special Surgery (Operative) in the New York Post-Graduate Medical School and Hospital, I never had occasion to use any remedy as well calculated to build up the health and strength of debilitated men and women as Nuxated Iron. Prescribed freely and intelligently in my own practice, I have absolutely convinced myself that it is a preparation of extraordinary merit.

"If people would only realize that iron is just as indispensable to the blood as is air to the lungs, and be just as particular about keeping up a sufficient supply at all times, there would, in my opinion, be far less disease resulting from anaemic, weakened conditions. For years it was a problem with physicians how to administer iron in a form that could be taken up by the system and increase the red blood corpuscles without upsetting the stomach. Nuxated Iron is the preparation which eliminates almost the only objection to Nuxated Iron as the lack of Iron Itself. But the introduction of Nuxated Iron has done away with all objectionable features of the old mineral salts of iron and given to every careful, thinking physician a tried and valuable prescription which he can recommend implicitly every day with benefit. Nuxated Iron weakened nerves become strong nerves, creating and enriching the blood and creating new blood cells, strengthens the nerves, rebuilds the worn out tissues and helps to instill renewed energy and endurance into the whole system whether the patient be young or old. In my opinion Nuxated Iron is the most valuable strength and blood builder and force, that stamina and strength of will which are so necessary to success and power in every walk of life. Thousands of men and women are impairing their constitutions, laying themselves open to illness and literally losing their grip on health, simply because their blood is thinning out, possibly starving through lack of iron. Iron is absolutely essential to enable your blood to transform the food you eat into muscular tissue and brain. Without iron there is no strength, vitality and endurance to combat obstacles or withstand onerous strains. To help make strong, sturdy men and women of you, to help make your blood red and iron there is nothing better than organic iron—Nuxated Iron. Mr. Paderewski says: "I am using Nuxated Iron very frequently and consider it as an excellent tonic."

Dr. George H. Baker, formerly Physician and Surgeon, Monmouth Memorial Hospital of New Jersey, says: "The fact that Nuxated Iron is today being used by over three million people annually as a tonic, strength and blood-builder, is in itself an evidence of tremendous public confidence and I am convinced that if others should take Nuxated Iron when they feel weak and run-down they would help make a nation of stronger, healthier men and women."

If you are not strong and well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Then take one or two 5-grain tablets of ordinary Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. Numbers of persons, run-down people who were ailing all the while have most astonishingly increased their strength and endurance in two weeks by taking iron in the proper form. And this after they had, in some cases, been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit.

Manufacturer's Note: Nuxated Iron recommended above is not a secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older forms of inorganic iron sometimes, it is positively assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed in this city by all good druggists.

GAS BILLS GO UP 300 P. C., IS CHARGE

Brookline Woman Says Bills Are Tripled Without Increased Use of Supply

Additional complaints of extortionate rates charged by the Boston Consolidated Gas Company were made today by Mrs. L. C. Loomis, of No. 56 Marion street, Brookline who stated to the American that from an average monthly bill not exceeding $5 per month a year ago her bills now have jumped 300 per cent.

"In 1917 when I resided at No. 47 St. Paul street, Brookline, my gas bills for four months were: September $3.46; October, $7.52; November, $6.85, and December, $8.96.

"In January of this year, on account of the coal shortage, when I was forced to depend upon gas for both heating and cooking, the bill for that month was $11.52. In July of 1918 the bill was again $6.68.

$79.30 CHARGED ONE MONTH.

"From July to October of 1918 there were no bills sent. When I did receive one it amounted to $79.30. A reduction of $5.30 was made from this bill, as the company stated that the new advanced rate did not include some of the months which had been billed me.

"When I complained of the excessive amount in the bill, the company stated they would test the meter. After the meter was tested, they took off an additional $4.

This placed the average at $15 per month, when I was using but little or no gas.

"On December 1, 1918, when I went to the Marion street house, the first bill amounted to $18.96. During this period, I had used no gas for lighting, electricity being used. The January bill was for $16.10.

"Upon complaint to the company, they said, 'You will have to pay the bill first and we will test the meter.' I could not understand how they arrived at that amount, inasmuch as there had been no one sent to read the meter.

"While living at the St. Paul street house, for five years, I had never received a bill so large, as in the present house. I always used coal for heating and gas only for a short period cooking during the morning breakfast time. There ought to be some way to obtain redress in as much as it appears like robbery to be compelled to pay an exorbitant amount for something not used."

$300,000 VOTED IN BILL FOR 26TH

The Senate passed to be engrossed the bill providing an appropriation of $300,000 to be expended under the direction of the Governor and Council for the reception to the 26th Division and for incidental expenses. The measure will take effect upon its passage.

Lovely White Skin!

By all means, girls, prepare a lemon lotion to keep your skin fresh, clear and young looking. You will soon realize that true loveliness does not mean the powdery-look or waxen, colorlessness of some hot-house flower, but is typified by the velvety softness of your skin, your peaches-and-cream complexion and white hands.

At the cost of a small jar of ordinary cold cream one can prepare a full quarter pint of the most wonderful lemon skin softener and complexion beautifier, by squeezing the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white. Care should be taken to strain the juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp get in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan, and is the ideal skin softener, smoothener and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any pharmacy and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quarter pint of this sweetly fragrant lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands. It should naturally help to whiten, soften, freshen and bring out the roses and hidden beauty of any skin. It is simply marvelous to smoothen rough, red hands.

CIVIL SERVICE BOARD TO FACE CRITICS

There will be an important hearing soon at the State House at which the Civil Service Commission will have an opportunity of facing its critics in a letter to State Supervisor Thomas W. White, the commission demands to be heard.

The commission writes: "The Massachusetts Civil Service Commission, which has pursued the policy of many years' standing in connection with the investigation of its activities now in progress before the Supervisor of Administration, by maintaining silence in the face of attack, has determined to meet its accusers face to face and state the case, from the point of view of the Commonwealth, and the board as its agent insofar as the public service is concerned. The commission calls upon the Supervisor to set a date for a hearing."

"Mr. Thomas W. White, Supervisor of Administration, State House, Boston.

"Dear Sir: It is reported that in the hearing before you on Tuesday, March 18, Mr. Henry R. Herrick of Fall River made the following statement:

"'I can prove that I have had examinations of the Civil Service Commission before they were ever issued. That is a broad statement to make, but I don't make it in any spirit of boasting, and I have given pupils in cities of this Commonwealth two weeks in advance the very questions that they got in their examination.'

"The Civil Service Commission respectfully requests that you will probe this statement to the bottom, and suggests that you require Mr. Herrick to appear before you with names, dates and exact details, in support of his statement. Respectfully yours, (Signed) "JOHN C. GILBERT,

"Secretary."

"GLITTERING GLORIA" A HIT AT ARLINGTON

There was no mistaking the response of the audience to the impressible appeal of "Glittering Gloria" by C. M. S. McLellan at the opening of the revival of that sparkling three-act farce at the Arlington Theatre. And indeed it would have been an unusually dull audience that would not have responded to the continual effervescence of humor that surrounds the antics of the few of its kind that does not depend upon time-worn situations to produce effects. Ruth Robinson, in the title role, did particularly praiseworthy work. "Gloria" is a London music hall star who plans a triumphal tour of America. "Glittering Gloria" was run successfully in Boston some several seasons ago.

S. P. C. A. CHIEF WILL CROSS CONTINENT

It was announced at the annual meeting today of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and the American Humane Education Society, at which Dr. Francis H. Rowley was chosen president for the tenth consecutive year, that he would leave Boston tomorrow for California, as arrangements have been made for him to make a speaking tour of the Pacific Coast in the interests of humane education.

The other officers of both societies were all re-elected, and W. J. McDonald was added to the directorate of the Massachusetts S. P. C. A., and Mrs. May L. Hall to that of the American Humane Education Society.

In his annual report, President Rowley said that the most striking new feature in the work was the "field officer" who has already traveled over 14,000 miles in the Ford runabout presented to the society early last season. The summary for the year of the regular agents' work follows:

Complaints received, 9,527; animals examined, 68,771; prosecutions, 257; convictions, 241; horses taken from work, 1,945; worn-out or injured horses humanely destroyed, 1,360; small animals humanely destroyed, 1,283; cattle, sheep and swine examined at stockyards, 762,377; sick or injured cattle, sheep and swine killed at stockyards, 1,345.

A new feature is the Jack London Club, started less than a year ago, with now over 30,000 members, to create a public sentiment that will ultimately drive trained-animal performances from the stage.

At the society's rest farm in Methuen more than forty horses were received for pasture last Summer.

In Massachusetts alone, 22,893 school children joined the Band of Mercy, and in the entire country 4,917 new bands were organized, making the total number of Bands of Mercy to date, 117,330. The society received $17,935 and expended $29,350.

By NICK FLATLEY

Columbus, Ga., March 25.—The day of the Intra-team practice games has dawned, and the first real baseball of the year flings the Braves in the best possible shape.

Five days of absolutely perfect training weather have given Stallings and his bunch of athletes the finest kind of a flying start.

With the exception of a charley horse, which Lefty George corralled while scampering around the far stretches of the outfield, there's not a sign of physical or mental trouble in this here camp.

The opening session between the Braves proper and the Crackers, as the Yannigans are now dubbed, developed a sort of Babe Ruth for the outfit, in Jack Scott, the big pitcher, who has recovered astonishingly from an auto crash last Spring that short circuited all the wires in his pitching arm.

SCOTT PUMMELS PILL.

Jack, who is quite a hurler, it might be mentioned, tossed for the Crackers and thumped out a long, lofty triple for one thing, and followed it up next time by blasting a liner at Herzog that made Charley Pill he hadn't reported so early.

Charley stopped it because he couldn't get out of the way.

Reports from various corners of this sector prove that Mister Scott has always been one of those demon hitters and the small leagues hereabouts are filled with yarns of his prodigious wallops.

"In about two more days," Stallings remarked this morning, "that bird (meaning Scott) will be ready to go a full game, and, believe me, he has something. He can't throw a straight ball now if he tries."

ERRORS BEAT CRACKERS.

The game went along seven chapters, with the Regulars nosing out 3-1, though the victors would probably have been blanked but for an error flurry on the part of a couple of Crackers in the fourth chapter.

Scott was heaving, and a pair of consecutive blows by Riggert and Holke, followed by a couple of lurid chucks by Meehan and Tragesser ruined the day. After Scott had gone four frames, George took up the task, and curved and slow balled the veterans to death.

Keating went along four canto for the Crackers, and Northrop, who showed a bunch of stuff, wound it up.

Pat Ragan has arrived from Hot Springs, Ark., and looks fit. Ed Konetchy is now the only absentee. He's not expected at the camp and may not even come on to Boston.

TWO AND THREE PUTTING THE NEXT ONE OVER WITH "BUGS" BAER.

Baseball Goods, F. O. B., Europe.

ALTHOUGH the diplomatic hounds haven't succeeded in cutting the adenoids loose from the Monroe Doctrine, the birds over on the wrong side of the Atlantic have stepped right off to invade the works.

They have attacked us right where we are the most ticklish. Between the third and fourth baseball ribs. After tossing a torpid eyepiece at the Doughboys going through the motions of straking an ump, and wondering what it was all about, the Europeans have suddenly discovered that baseball is a wonderful game for developing the fingers on the cash register. If there is anything that a foreign cuckoo loves to do it is to stretch a nimble octave on the famous Dayton piano.

The old world is now manufacturing baseball goods. But it's too late to change history. If Caesar had only been dolled up in a catcher's chest protector during the Ides of March the harpoons would have bounced off of his revolving shirt front like horse flies off a locomotive.

If Marc Antony had been wearing his spiked sandals when he crashed Egypt he wouldn't have lost the pennant to Cleopatra, who was the Theda Bara of the whoodle spangled 5000.

If Mannuel had been wearing smoked glasses when he first lamped Gaby he wouldn't have lost his throne in the sun. The Czar would still be playing in the outfield instead of playing beneath it.

If Marie Antoinette knew anything about keeping a box score her head wouldn't have taken that bad bounce off the Paris infield.

Big Rat in the Trap.

HOWEVER, everything is for the best, as that Iowa bird said when he invented a machine that would knit cold Welsh rarebits into sox. If the Kaiser had known anything about baseball he wouldn't have tried to stretch a foul ball into a home run. He nibbled at the burned cheese with the usual result. He is now festering in Holland cutting down all the trees. He has flattened one thousand trees already, but he won't feel safe until he clips every tree in the world. Then he's going after the lamp-posts.

When he has all the lamp-posts cut off below the ankles he is going to manicure the telegraph poles next and pretty. The old boy has no ambition to be flying at half mast from a pole with the crows playing billiards with his eyes.

Water Bucket Full of Perfume.

THE fact that they don't know any more about American sporting goods than a hog does about Sunday doesn't prevent the European manufacturers from busting into the game. The famous Parisian perfumers are now turning out bevel-edged water buckets full of crushed violets and rose leaves.

Another Paree firm is putting out a standard line of outfielder's shoes with red high heels and silver buckles. An Italian company is away out in front with a baseball made of spaghetti wound around a cork centre olive.

If Paquin or the other costume designers put in sealed bids for big league uniforms we may yet pipe Ping Bodie flatfooting around centre field in a low-necked afternoon gown and silk stockings.

A Norwegian concern is turning out Scandinavian sluggers to take the place of the old Louisville busters. One swing at a swift inshoot and you have the finest collection of toothpicks that ever stirred up a decayed Vesuvius. You can't open Europe to do very good at the sporting game. That's the land where they hunt salmon with a can opener.

If a foul tip ever smeared a leaguer who was wearing a Turkish catcher's mask it would cram the outfit down his throat like a meal. Turkish masks only extend from the nose to the Adam's apple, allowing the catcher's eyes enough territory to vamp the umpire.

Hunishness?

BASEBALL kept our doughboys in enough shape to knock the Cheeser out of shape. This business of Europe knitting baseball goods may be a heavy skulled scheme of the Kaiser's to ruin the game that ruined him. If this is true it is frightfulness steamed up to a million.

There is no spirit of gratefulness in the Hohenzollern vest. When a doughboy knocked a Boche loose from his cache he did it more in sorrow than in anger. He had orders to stick the foe very carefully so as not to spoil his nauseloum trousseau. He never cracked a skull without giving the guest of honor a chance to remove his hat to a safe place where it wouldn't be dented. When shooting spies the triggers were pulled very tenderly. And there is a record that no Yank ever blew up a foe without first planting a sweet kiss on the grenade.

PERE MARQUETTES TO HAVE USUAL WINNER

Pere Marquette Council, K. of C., will have its usual speedy baseball nine in the field this coming season. Tom Fitzgerald, last year's Lexington High School crack, will do the bulk of the pitching, with Herb Cavanaugh, South Boston A. A. wizard, helping him out. Dempsey, who formerly caught for the Brocketon (Colonial League) club, will be behind the bat. Doherty, Flaherty, Ford, Kerrigan, Kaup and McMahon, infielders, and Gorman, Cummings, Dolan, Cannon, McMahon and O'Neil, outfielders, complete the squad. For games address Manager M. J. King, No. 16 Tudor street, South Boston.

PANGRAZE AND CONLEY WIN IN RING AT LYNN

Joe Pangrase of Weymouth defeated Harry Silva of West End House in the special boxing number which featured the Lynn T. A. B. show, Casino Hall. An extra round was ordered by the judges before Pangrase secured the award. Chick Polo of Lynn defeated Paddy Gorman of South Boston in two rounds; John Conley of the South End won from John Murphy of South Boston in one round, and Billy Sullivan disposed of Billy Cahill in three rounds in the other specials.

The class winners—118-pounds, Fred Sisterale of Cambridge; 118-pounds, John George of Brockton; 146-pounds, Joe Minotti of South Boston.

McNALLY STOPS LINER; RESULT: SPLIT THUMB

By JACK CONWAY

Tampa, Fla., March 25.—Despite the fact that the war is over, the representatives of the navy may continue to secure firms.

Just to keep Uncle Sam's sea fighters in the spotlight, Mike McNally pushed his left thumb in the way of a hard hit ball at the Red Sox' morning practice, with the result that it will be a week before he is able to grip a bat again.

The bone was dislocated. Trainer Lawler came to McNally's rescue and attended to the injured member.

NEW PLAY FOR SOX.

It was the first casualty "Doc" has had since the Red Sox began their Spring training and he remarked that his medicine chest was fit for a strenuous campaign.

Two trips to the ball yard the same day during the Spring trip is a new experience for the World's Champions. When Bill Carrigan was in charge of festivities at Hot Springs, he had his men practice from 11 a. m. until 2 p. m. During this time, however, there was not an idle moment.

Under present conditions the players are obliged to conserve their strength during the morning workout. They know that after a light lunch they will be called to the ball yard for another session. Consequently, there are many lulls during the morning practice. In the afternoon the players let out a little more.

A ROOMY PLAYFIELD.

After his first day's practice, Babe Ruth bashfully admitted that the best way to put a ball over the right field railing would be to page a jitney, drive a half mile or so and then do some fungo batting.

The ball field is situated inside of a horse track and there is a railing around it. The fence is several Florida miles the other side of the railing and it would be impossible to put a ball over it.

ANOTHER BOYNTON IS TO ATTEND WILLIAMS

Williamstown, March 25.—Benny Boynton's kid brother, Charley, is to enter Williams College next Fall. He is the football star of the Waco, Tex., High School, and also a good baseball player and track man.

Coach Ira Thomas gave the baseball squad its first drill outdoors today. He has reduced his squad to sixteen players.

B. C. BALL SQUAD STARTS WORK OUTDOORS

Boston College's diamond candidates reported in force for their first outdoor workout of the season.

Coach Beef Glidea gave the squad a long session of batting practice and the way the old "pill" went sailing around Alumni Field indicates that Boston College will have a team that will not lack in sluggers.

Among the newcomers shining were Chick McLaughlin and Bill Mahoney, former Rindge Tech stars, both of whom show the result of Charley Linehan's training.

McLaughlin especially looks good. He is full of confidence; steps right into the ball and is sure to make a great bid for work at the initial sack.

Glidea has two other good prospects in Cen O'Dougherty, formerly of Exeter, who is expected to give Eddie Burke a keen competition for the third base job, and Mulcahy, ex-Tufts outfielder.

Manager Burke has practically completed arrangements for two games with the Baltimore Internationals, to take place on the team's Southern trip in April.

Pugilistic News and Notes

Tonight's Boxing Card.

Ralph Brady vs. K. O. Marr, Armory A. A, Grand Opera House.

Battling Nelson vs. Young Gouin, Harry Ah Chung vs. Larry Burns, at Providence.

Acting Matchmaker McDavitt of the Commercial A. C. announces that he expects Bob McKirdy back the last part of the week and adds that he is anxious to put over a show that will keep Bob on the jump in matching up the hitters. He is positive the card he has arranged for Friday night will give the "big noise" at the Home of Action something to think about.

Two Armory A. A. bookings: Kid Norfolk-Larry Williams, April 1; Charley Parker-Phinney Boyle, April 29.

Milwaukee, March 25.—The State Boxing Commission has refused to sanction the Joe Rivers-Willie Ritchie fight, scheduled for April 4. Rivers, who has been inactive for two years, is not considered a "suitable opponent" for Ritchie, who recently shaded Benny Leonard in a four-round bout in San Francisco.

Last Night in the Ring

Memphis, Tenn.—Pal Moore, Memphis banty-weight, was all the war in his bout with Champion Pete (Kid) Herman, eight rounds. It was a no-decision battle as title would have changed hands.

Philadelphia—Jack Britton, welterweight champion, outpointed Jack Ferry, ten rounds.

Cleveland—Kid Wolfe, Cleveland bantamweight, outpointed Jack Sharkey of New York, ten rounds.

Springfield—Joe Rauch of Chicopee, Mass., outpointed Al Wiltse of Hartford, Conn., four rounds.

Pittsfield—Battling Reddy of New York and Phil Logan of Jamestown, N. Y., drew twelve rounds.

HOWARD DREW TO RUN IN FRANCE'S BIG MEET

New York, March 25.—Word was received today that Howard Drew, colored sprint champion, is training at Nice, France, for the international games next June. Another of the local athletes who will take part in the big meet will be Jim Duncan, champion discus thrower.

WITH THE SCHOOLBOYS

Candidates for battery positions look good to Coach Pendergast of Dorchester High. The one likely to shine the most is Godfrey. This boy did some very fine twirling last Summer.

Candidates for the Middlesex School nine will begin practice April 1. Dr. Howe, faculty coach, will take charge of the oarsmen as soon as school reopens March 31. The annual regatta takes place the following week.

There will be a meeting of the faculty coaches next week to decide the date for the outdoor track and field carnival. The meet will probably be held in the early part of June.

One of the features of Saturday's meet will be the relay between the Boston "El" and U. S. Shipping Board. The "El" team will be made up of three former Latin School boys, Claude Webster, Joe Dunnley and Frank Doherty, and Johnny Barr, ex-Commerce star. The Shipping Board team will consist of Kirley and Howlett of English and Burns and Gately of Commerce.

Popular Marty Welsh, former St. John's star baseball and basketball player, has played his last game. Marty went over with the Marines and will never come back. The boys returning say that Marty played the big game in France as well as he did the other ones over here.

Louis Levein, former English High star and member of the 1917 Navy Yard baseball team, has gone into the cotton business and will be a candidate for the Cotton Exchange team.

Billy Hayes, former St. John's star track man, is out of the navy and plans running again this Spring.

Bernie Friedberg, Lynn English and Colby Academy athlete, will be in the outfield for the Cornet All-Stars again this season. Tommy Ring and Quinn also will play, with that speedy aggregation.

ERNIE SHORE DUE AT YANKEES' CAMP TODAY

Jacksonville, Fla., March 25.—Dutch Leonard and Ernie Shore are the only two players still unsigned by the Yankees. Shore was expected to meet Manager Miller Huggin here today and affix his signature to a document. Leonard is also expected to put in an appearance in camp before the week is out.

MIKE YOKEL OUT TO PIN DOWN JOE TURNER

Mike Yokel, America's middleweight wrestling champion, is training faithfully for his match with Joe Turner at the Grand Opera House Thursday night. The number brings together two grapplers owning different styles and Coach Tuohey's customers look set to have one of the best treats of the season. The winner is to be matched with Waino Ketonen, Europe's middleweight premier.

OFFICIALS NAMED TO RUN N. E. TITLE BOUTS

John Brassil, John Lynch, L. R. Sullivan, William Volk and Jerome Moore have been appointed referees at the New England amateur boxing championships, which take place at Mechanics Building next Monday night. The judges are Joseph Collins, J. Shaughnessey, M. P. Winston, M. C. McGrath, Masterson, Doherty, Henry Osthues, J. B. Higgins and Patrick J. Whalen.

STEEL LEAGUE NOT TO OPERATE THIS SEASON

Bethlehem, Pa., March 25. — The Steel League, to which many major league baseball stars flocked during the war period, is to be abandoned. No attempt will be made to operate this season.

JIM HICKEY, COMMERCE TRACK TEAM, CRACK SPRINTER.

THE most consistent dash man of the year is Jim Hickey of High School of Commerce. This brilliant young athlete does not confine all his efforts to track. He is a football end and a first baseman on the ball team. He will graduate in 1920. His home is in Roslindale.

Shubert Given Worst of Call in Battle with Chaney

Baltimore, March 25.—It is seldom that fight fans raise a loser to their shoulders to occupy that exalted position while his name is cheered, yet that is what the patrons did to Al Shubert of New Bedford, Mass., after Young Chaney of Baltimore had been declared the winner over him in their twelve-round set-to.

That Young Chaney was beaten by Shubert few will deny and that the referee hooted one is practically the unanimous opinion. If he had called the bout a draw there would not have been such a howl.

As matters stand the record will show a black mark against the name of the New Bedford boxer and surely its undeserved.

Baseball News and Notes

Johnny McGraw is banking on Earl Smith, the youngster he acquired from Rochester, to do the bulk of his catching in the coming race. The Kid is reported to be an all-round wonder. He swatted .353 for the Raws.

Duffy Lewis and Ping Bodie will be two of Miller Huggins' outfielders. No. 3 will be either Frank Lane, the tall, husky from Providence; Elmer Miller, Tom Miller or Vick.

Terre Haute has landed a Three-I League berth. Miner Brown, old-time slab mainstay of the Clubs, has signed as manager.

BRADY ON WITH MARS IN RING OF TRIPLE A

Ringside's Selections.

Ralph Brady to beat K. O. Marr.
Willie Green to beat Battling Green.
Young Chaney to beat Joe Delmont.
Patsy Flynn to beat Frank Rappetto.

By RINGSIDE.

Another snappy lightweight Queensberry quarrel will be on tap at the Armory A. A.'s weekly biff show, at the Grand Opera House tonight, when Ralph (Biff-Bang) Brady of Syracuse, N. Y., squares off with K. O. Marr of Cincinnati. The advance sale, according to Manager Ivy Lewis, vouchsafes another packed house.

Brady went swimmingly big when on with Frankie (Young) Britt a few weeks ago. He was right there with the New Bedford battler up to the halfway mark; had his rugged visage reeling and close to taking an abode on Queer street in the ninth canto, only to be out finished and lose an award he practically had tucked away.

Last Monday night Brady boxed Benny Valger, French Flash, in a double six-rounder at Portland. It was a sizzling close set-to, with little to choose between the two at the final bell, according to the bulk of the fans.

In Marr, Brady is meeting a rough, tough youngster. While K. O. is no Spring chicken, he was never going better than right now.

In the semi-final Willie Green meets Battling Green of Hartford, Ct. This clever boy recently had Frankie Williams for a foe, showed about equal speed against that promising youth and their number bids fair being a busy one.

Patsy Flynn and Frank Rappeito and Joe Delmont and Young Chaney will hook up in the two six-round preliminaries.

Even at Fenway A. A. Carlson Holds Valger

Larry Conley, referee of the Armory A. A. and this section's best ring judge, ran the Benny Valger-Harry Carlson encounter, which topped the initial biff card of the Fenway A. A., because the former young gent and his manager Joe Jacobs, insisted that he be the third man in the ring.

'Twas Coffey's opinion, at the end of quite a torrid twelve-rounder, that honors were even up. So he passed out the dear old draw verdict.

Figuring that Carlson was the aggressor most of the way, he might have had the draw coming. But when it came to clean scoring, classy manoeuvring and speedy boxing, honors were clearly with Valger. Conley's verdict was generously "booed," which proves it wasn't any too popular.

A young murder was staged in the semi-final. The two gents on the job were Joe Connolly and Larry Costello, neighbors over Chelsea-way. They deped to have it out in hammer and tongs style and the dope didn't go wrong. Johnny Mussie had Connolly at his best, and, while Larry bet fly a number of very vicious rights, he ducked 'em and thus stayed on his pins.

Connolly had the whip hand all the way and Referee Jerry Moore very properly stopped the scrap in the midst of the fourth round, when it was plainly evident Costello was done for.

There were two kayos to start with. Willie Coogan, who subbed for Teppy Leahy, flattened Young Joe Weir in the second round and Young Sullivan cared for Young Ford in the same chapter.

This Day in History—March 25, 1919

THIS is the anniversary of the coalition made in 1815 by Austria, Prussia, Great Britain and Russia whereby each agreed to furnish 180,000 men to crush the ambitions of Napoleon. The finale came at Waterloo, where the French Emperor, defeated, surrendered to Captain Maitland and was exiled to St. Helena.

THE DARK STAR

THRILLING ROMANCE OF AN AMERICAN GIRL

One of the Newest and Best Novels of Intrigue, Love and War From This Famous Author's Pen, Full of Vivid Human Interest

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

Synopsis of the Story So Far

Ruhannah Carew, born in Trebisond, daughter of an American missionary. Reverend Wilbour Carew, accompanies her parents to their old home in Gayfield, New York State, after the father had been crippled by a Mohammedan fanatic. Her favorite amusement is playing with the wonder box of the late Henry Conrad Wilmer, a few pages of whose diary she always read by her father or mother to her as a bedtime story. The box contains treasures with which Rue plays and finds absorbing interest. She learns from the diary that Wilmer saw the box being dropped from a yacht in the Bosphorus and fished it up with the body of a beautiful girl sewn in a sack.

Wilmer, as an agent of the German government, makes plans for fortifying Gallipoli. The duplicates of these are stolen and he gets evidence that the Turks seek his life. He gives the box to Rev. Mr. Carew for safe keeping, with instructions to send the plans to Berlin in case he is killed. He is stoned to death, but Mr. Carew keeps the papers. Rue, as she grows up, longs to be an artist, but the family has only a pension and it is decided she must go to work. She meets Dick Neeland, who had known her as a child and who is now an artist. He dances with her and tells her of his success. She dreams of making a name for herself.

AFTER dinner, dishes washed and room tidied, she sat down on the narrow, woodbine-infested verandah with pencil and paper and attempted to draw the stone bridge and the little river where it spread in deeps and shallows above the broken dam.

Perspective was unknown to her; of classic composition she was also serenely ignorant, so the absence of these in her picture did not annoy her. On the contrary, there was something hideously modern and recessional in her vigorous endeavor to include in her drawing everything her gray eyes chanced to rest on. She even arose and gently urged a cow into the already overcrowded composition, and, having accomplished its portrait with Cezanne-like fidelity, was beginning to look about for Adoniram to include him also, when her mother called to her, holding out a pair of old gloves.

"Dear, we are going to save a little money this year. Do you think you could catch a few fish for supper?"

The girl nodded, took the gloves, laid aside her pencil and paper, picked up the long bamboo pole from the verandah floor and walked slowly out into the garden.

A trowel was sticking in the dry earth near the flower bed, where poppies, and pansies, and petunias, and phlox bordered the walk.

Under a lilac the ground seemed moister and more promising for vermicular investigation; she drew on her gloves, dug a few holes with the trowel, extracted an angleworm, frowned slightly, holding it between gloved fingers, regarding its contortions with pity and aversion.

To bait a hook was not agreeable to the girl; she managed to do it, however, then shouldering her pole she walked across the road and down to the left, through rank grasses and patches of milkweed, bergamot, and queens' lace, scattering a cloud of brown and silver-spotted butterflies.

Alder, elder, and Indian willow barred her way; rank thickets of jewelweed hung vivid blossoming drops across her path; woodbine and clematis trailed dainty snares to catch her in their fairy nets; a rabbit scurried out from behind the ruined paper mill as she came to the swift, shallow water below the dam.

Into this she presently plumped her line, and the next instant jerked it out again with a wriggling, silvery minnow flashing on the hook.

Carrying her pole with its tiny, glittering victim dangling aloft, Rue hastily retraced her steps to the road, crossed the bridge to the further end, seated herself on the limestone parapet, and, swinging her pole with both hands, cast line and hook and minnow far out into the pond. It was a business she did not care for—this extinguishing of the life-spark in anything. But, like her mill work, it appeared to be a necessary business, and, so regarding it, she went about it.

Rue, her pole clasped in both hands between her knees, gazed with preoccupied eyes out across the water. On the sandy shore, a pair of speckled tip-ups ran busily about, dipping and bobbing, or spread their white, striped wings to sheer the still surface of the pond, swing shoreward with bowed head again, and resume their formal, quaint and busy manners.

From the interstices of the limestone parapet grew a white bluebell—the only one Rue had ever seen. As long as she could remember it had come up there every year and bloomed, snow-white amid a world of its blue comrades in the grass below. She looked for it now, saw it in bud—three sturdy stalks sprouting at right angles from the wall and curving up parallel to it. Somehow or other she had come to associate this white freak of nature with herself—she scarcely knew why. It comforted her, oddly, to see it again, still surviving, still delicately vigorous, though where among those stone slabs it found its nourishment she never could imagine.

The intense blue of the sky had altered since noon; the west became gradually duller and the air stiller; and now, over the Gayfield hills, a tall cloud thrust up silvery-edged convolutions toward a zenith still royally and magnificently blue.

How About That Legacy?

Beatrice Fairfax Urges Parents to Take a Personal Interest in Their Boys and Girls

By Beatrice Fairfax

WHAT are you going to leave your children? Not to be able to leave money to one's children has embittered the last days of many a poor man. And I am not going to appear to despise wealth to the extent of saying such bequests are unimportant.

There is no more consoling thought than that we are leaving those near and dear to us beyond the reach of want, dependence or public charity.

But there are some bequests that are within the grasp of all parents, something that the poorest mother and father may leave, something that the immigrant to these shores often grasps more readily than our native-born American. I mean the education that will enable a boy or girl to reach for better things. (This does not mean going to school only; it means teaching your children to have some resources within themselves.

The treasures of the world are to be had for the taking, but the average parents' idea of generosity is to let the child go to a trashy movie, or give him a nickel to invest in an "all-day sucker." Now I would be the last to deny to childhood these two sovereign remedies against the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune"; but do not imagine when you have conferred these benefits that you have done your whole duty as a liberal parent.

Children and Learning

Are you training your child to have a brain or heart, or are you letting him grow up to be a creature of the senses? Are you helping your children to read intelligently, to know good music and pictures? Are they growing up to keep step through life to ragtime?

Perhaps you will say you do not understand these things yourself; that you have never had an opportunity to acquire a taste for good literature, music, pictures. To which I am going to reply that parents who have not had your advantages and who have not been in this country long enough to be naturalized see to it that their children acquire these things.

One day last Summer I happened to be in Chicago, over a national holiday, and I paid a visit to the art museum. There were several parties, consisting of father, mother and children, viewing the pictures, not none of them spoke English. There was an energetic Italian explaining some landscapes to his two small sons. And it was unbelievable the vital thing that art meant to this shabby group.

The man's comments were so intelligent, and the boys grasped what he said so readily, that I could not help speaking to them. I learned he was a barber's assistant, a Venetian, and he had loved art all his life. It was his dream that some day his boys would paint, and on this account to see good pictures on holidays.

Out of curiosity go some day, after school hours, to a public library and study the faces of the children who are borrowing good books. Four times out of five you will find them to be young Hebrews, the children of poor immigrants who have brought to this country an appreciation of art. A knowledge of art, not for human power, and human power is not a thing of the market to be bought or sold. It is not a product to be manufactured by any mechanical process. It is growth—and it is within the grasp of us all."

Indifference of the Prosperous

But the prosperous and the near prosperous do not always realize this. It is a truth grasped more readily by repressed people, and it accounts for their quick flowering, since they have taken root in the rich soil of this hospital land.

There are plenty of comfortable American homes in which no books are ever read but the trashiest and most sensational, no music is ever heard but the rattle and bang of ragtime, no pictures—worthy the name—adorn the walls; nothing but the cheap or insipid, day after day, impresses false standards on the fluid minds of children.

Are you teaching your children to love nature and the woods, fields, birds and the ways of the forest things? Or are you letting your boy grow up to think a bird is something only to be shot, and your girl that the country is a place which is death to high heels and patent leathers?

Who are the men who have made world history in the great war just closed? They are not the sons of rich men, for the most part. They were born with the traditional silver spoon. First, there is our own President, the son of a clergyman. Anyone who is familiar with the early history of Woodrow Wilson may read between the lines the valiant effort of his family to educate its gifted son—a struggle ably seconded by his wise and able mother.

And there is Lloyd George, the Welsh orphan boy, who began life as a cobbler's apprentice and found inspiration in his Bible. He rose to be Prime Minister of England and its guiding spirit through the great conflict.

And there is Lord Northcliffe, whose clarion call to arms roused the English people to a world peril. He began life as a clerk on a few shillings a week. Our own General Pershing is a self-made man. Clemenceau, the grand old man of France, once taught French in a girls' boarding school in Stamford, Ct., and fell in love with his prettiest pupil, and married her, too.

Hard Fate

There had been words before between the dramatic author and his leading comedian as to the latter's habit of adding impromptu jokes to his part.

"There's no room for you to gag," said the dramatist angrily, after the comedian had done it again.

"Your part as written is quite funny enough. All you've got to do is to say the words and wait for the audience to laugh."

The comedian did not look convinced.

"That's all right for you," he grumbled. "You live in town, and can afford the time. But don't forget that I have to catch the midnight train to my place in the country."

Try Making Your Own Cough Remedy

You can save about $2, and have a healthy thing to do, when you've made kind. Easily done.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough mixture, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and bronchial asthma there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.—Advertisement.

Just One Application and the Hairs Vanish

(Toilet Talks)

Any woman can keep her skin free from unsightly hair or fuss if she will follow these simple instructions: When hair growths appear, apply a simple paste, made by mixing some water with powdered delatone. Apply this to hairy surfaces and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This is a harmless treatment, but be sure you get the real delatone.—Advertisement.

Smart Coat and Dainty Frock

Foulard frocks are always practical in that they can be worn on various occasions. A very dainty one is here shown in blue foulard with dainty little aproh in front and back of the skirt of blue georgette.

Among the endless variety of cape coats appears this garment of navy blue serge lined with pearl gray satin. The deep band around the bottom is heavily braided. Into this band is gathered the fullness of the coat. The cuffs are also trimmed with braid.

Back Again to Frills

By Rita Stuyvesant

NOW that women are laying aside their service uniforms and beginning to take their frivolous frills seriously once more, lovely bags are being seen with the new Spring costumes. These bags, which have replaced the cretonne knitting bag, are both attractive and useful, and are shown in a great variety of colors and materials. Remnants of silk velvet and satin may be nicely utilised for handbags, and if a bit of material is left from one's dress, you can make a bag to match each frock.

A clever girl recently showed me a small bag she fashioned from a remnant of wide taffeta ribbon of a dark figured design. The ribbon was folded in half, lengthwise, and seamed on either side, but leaving an opening about two inches deep. With a little gray silk she lined the bag, turning the materials in toward each other at the top to avoid a raw edge. The bag was then mounted on an imitation tortoise shell frame and held in place by firm stitches.

Dark brown and gold brocade was responsible for one of the smartest bags seen this season. It was a short length of broad ribbon that was bought at a considerable reduction and was made over another bag that was quite worn.

Barber Gives Recipe For Gray Hair

Mr. A. E. O'Brien, who has been a barber in New York City for many years, made the following statement: "Gray, streaked or faded hair can be immediately made black, brown or light brown, whichever shade you desire, by the use of the following remedy that you can make at home:

"Merely get a box of Orinz powder at any drug store. It costs very little and no extras to buy. Dissolve it in a cup of distilled or rain water and comb it through the hair. Directions for mixing and use are a gold bond guarantee come in each box. One box will last you for months.

"It is perfectly safe, it does not rub off, is not sticky or gummy and leaves the hair fluffy. It will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger."—Advertisement.

A Rousing Preacher

Among the anecdotes told of the late Rev. Dr. Somerville of Andersonton, Glasgow, is the following: When he was assistant to Dr. Bonar at Larbert he had over three miles to walk from his lodging at Larbert to Dunipace, where he generally preached. He used to set off early in the morning, giving thundering knocks on the cottage doors on his route to rouse the late-slumbering inmates, commanding them to come to church, and taking no refusal. One morning he met a quarryman whom, as usual, he urged to accompany him.

"Hoo can I come in thae boots?" was the stolid reply.

Doctor Somerville took off his own footgear and insisted on an exchange.

"Now," he said, "mine are good enough for you to hear in and yours are good enough for me to preach in!"

Too Hasty

A builder, observing a man standing on the scaffolding with his hands in his pockets, smoking a pipe, went up to him and said, "Now I've caught you; we'll have no more of this! When did you start? Monday? Well, here's your four days' pay; consider yourself discharged!" The man pocketed the money and went away quickly. A few minutes later the foreman came up, and the builder told him what he had done. "Why," said the foreman, "that man wasn't working for us—he was only asking for a job!"

Nero's Fish Pond

Beneath the Basilica of the Flavian palace in Rome Professor Boni has found two narrow stairways leading to a "piscina," a water reservoir consisting of five compartments. It is still intact, covered and well preserved by waterproof cement. The reservoir dates from the time of Nero, when it was used as a pond for sea fish, with the object of breeding exotic fish for the Emperor's table.

Happy Days

They were strolling on the pier.

"I spent my honeymoon here at this resort," said he.

"That is the happiest time of one's life, I suppose?" said she.

"Oh, yes; one is so ignorant of the future."

RELIABLE METHOD OF HAIR CARE

Hair is by far the most conspicuous thing about us and is probably the most easily damaged by bad or careless treatment. If we are very careful in hair washing, we will have virtually no hair troubles. An especially fine shampoo for this weather, one that brings out all the natural beauty of the hair, that dissolves and entirely removes all dandruff, excess oil and dirt, can easily be used at trifling expense by simply dissolving a teaspoonful of canthrox (which you can get at any druggist's), in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. This chemically dissolves all impurities and creates a soothing, cooling lather. Rinsing leaves the scalp spotlessly clean, soft and pliant, while the hair takes on the glossy richness of natural color, also a fluffiness which makes it seem much heavier than it is. After canthrox shampoo, arranging the hair is a pleasure.—Advertisement.

A NEW SERIAL OF YOUNG MARRIED LIFE

Ann Lisle Writes Interestingly of the Trials and Slight Jealousies of a Bride

CHAPTER XCVII.

(Copyright, 1919, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

"I HAVE rather monopolized Mrs. Harrison," agreed Anthony Norreys amiably when Jim came to challenge him as we sat talking after Virginia's dinner. "But for the matter of that I rather monopolize you, lad. I'm an old hulk that needs fine young craft to convoy it. You do that for me now. Your wife has just promised to do it for my charity. She's going to let me establish an endowment fund at the Canteen—we're going to dole out 'banana splits' and cake and pudding."

"I'm not sure Anne will continue canteening," replied Jim darkly and ungraciously. "It's fine work—but I don't see that my wife is essential to it. It went on without her for a number of years——"

Terry broke in, and as is always the case where he is concerned, Jim at once became peaceable and good-natured.

"Your dope's all wrong, Jim. The idea is to relieve the veterans who have stood the strain for years by having the reserves come in. Every time Mrs. Jimmie has to serve at the dinner hour you count on me to share your lonely repast. I don't see why that didn't occur to you on your own—old chap."

Jim flushed and stirred uneasily—glancing at me almost in embarrassment at Terry's words. And that had me that what he'd done on the one evening I was on canteen duty was by no means so innocent as spending the time with Terry. I wondered if Terry knew—and was at one and the same time trying to secure my freedom for me and to make sure that Jim didn't take too lavish a portion of freedom for himself.

Bitter Reflections

As I took back on the evening, I wonder why I was so overwhelmed by the burning jealousy that usually overtakes me when I find myself questioning whether Jim is making use of his great fascination and charm for women. Was the faith in myself that Anthony Norreys had given me great enough to tide me over this situation?

Phoebe broke in as suddenly as Terry had done.

"I want to work at a canteen, too. I've nothing to do with myself and the days are so long."

"A worthy motive!" commented Virginia dryly.

"I don't care if it is or is not. I'm lonesome. I guess the boys are, too—so far from home and with the excitement of fighting all over. I'd like to meet 'em—and make a few friends. I don't know anyone in New York."

"That's gracious of you, Phoebe," said Virginia—still in the dry, deadtones so different from her usual sort of cheerfulness. "My friends—Jim's friends will appreciate being counted as nobody."

"Won't anyone understand?" Phoebe's voice broke and rasped. "You're all busy—and older than I—and you know where you're going —what you're going to do with your lives. I can't stand this drifting around aimlessly and having to take orders and always being the youngest—and not being vital to anyone."

So that explained Neal and his hold over Phoebe. The child's loneliness had driven her to accept his love. She needed him, rather than cared for him. In that moment I decided Virginia had been wise to send his ring back to my brother Neal.

"I think, dear—that you've made out the case against your taking on canteen work very well," said Virginia. "It needs responsible women —not girls looking for—larks and excitement."

"You'll never let me do a thing I want—I'll show you—I'll show you—I won't stand this!" cried Phoebe passionately.

Virginia took this very calmly, too—she seemed entrenched in a passive indifference from which nothing could stir her.

Phoebe Sent to Bed

"I'll let you do one thing you've been saying you wanted to—and that's run along to your own room, dear," she said smoothly.

Phoebe's little heart-shaped face crimsoned and flashed.

"So you send me to bed like a baby. You humiliate me before every one. You wait, Virginia Dalton—you wait!"

Then, with the curtest of good-nights, she fled from the room.

Jim turned with a word of apology.

"I can't think what has taken possession of the child. She doesn't act like herself. I apologize for Phoebe, and I apologize to Virginia for the way her dinner has been turned into a debating society."

THIN PEOPLE NEED BITRO-PHOSPHATE

How It Increases Weight, Strength and Nerve Force in Two Weeks' Time in Many Instances.

"Take plain bitro-phosphate" is the advice of physicians to thin, delicate, nervous people who lack vim, energy and nerve force, and they seem to be ample proof of the efficacy of this preparation to warrant the recommendation. Moreover, if we judge from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need

Miss Josephine Davis, reporting her own experience with BITRO PHOSPHATE, says: "It is wonderful. No wish it did for me. After a few days it began to regain my strength, felt full of life, was able to sleep soundly and all my little troubles seemed to disappear. I gained twelve pounds in four weeks."

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, "sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all starchy foods and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This awesome (the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

IN THE WORDS OF EAGLEBEAK, GET OFF OF THE SIDEWALK!
AW, I WILL NOT!
THAT'S VERY GOOD, BUT WHEN YOU SAY THAT, TAKE CARE TO BE ON YOUR GUARD!
OH SURE, I'LL BE ON MY GOARD ALL RIGHT
AWK, HA, HO, HEE, HA — HE'LL BE ON HIS WAY HE MEANS! AWK!

Stocks Ruled Higher in the Boston Market

LIGHT TRADING HERE IN U. S. STEEL

Closing of New York Exchange Has Little Effect Upon Local Market

Stocks ruled higher in the Boston market all the morning, but gains averaged small and business was of moderate volume only. On account of the parade in New York of the 27th Division, the New York Stock Exchange and other bourses in that city were closed. This had little effect upon trading here in issues listed on both exchanges.

U. S. Steel opened unchanged in Boston and up to noon ranged from 97¼ to 97¾. Anaconda opened at 60¾ and sold as high as 61 during the morning.

Coppers were quiet. Copper Range opened with a ¾ advance, but did not retain it. Allouez gained a point, but receded to its official price of yesterday. Quincy's half point advance was not long held. These were the most active mining issues.

International Products, listed a few weeks ago, was a strong specialty and comparatively active. Massachusetts Electric issues were dealt in to the usual extent, but did not figure quite far. United Fruit, Swift & Co. and Stewart were sold up or down small fractions. West End advanced a point during the forenoon. Agricultural Chemical sold at an advance of two points.

Gains at 12 o'clock included U. S. Steel ¼, at 97¾; Anaconda ¼, at 60¾; American Agricultural Chemical 2, at 106; International Products 2¾, at 39; Massachusetts Electric preferred ¾, at 51¾; Stewart ¼, at 39¾; Swift & Co., ¼, at 150; West End 1, at 41; American Telephone at 104¾; Ahmeek ¼, at 64, and Boston Elevated ¾, at 65.

U. S. METAL EXPORTS LARGE IN JANUARY

Metal exports of this country in January were large, although foreign demand had diminished. For the first 1919 month metal exports totaled 72,757,340 pounds, valued at $18,381,-794, compared with 81,039,209 pounds, valued at $21,672,036, in the corresponding month of last year. For the seven months ended with January the value was $96,787,362, against $156,423,661 in the seven months ended January 31, 1918, and $76,598,782 in the corresponding period of the 1916-1917 fiscal year.

The export trade of the United States is showing falls in running considerably ahead of a year ago. January exports were valued at $4,221,-993 against $1,985,250 in the corresponding month of last year. For the seven months ended with January the total was $18,617,957, against $12,779,216 in the corresponding period of the previous fiscal year and $15,772,955 in the seven months ended January 31, 1917.

U. S. Steel Stockholders

At the end of February fifty year holders of the common stock of the United States Steel Corporation numbered 78,017, a high record figure. The increase in three months totalled 8,239. At the end of 1916 holders of common stock numbered 57,778 so that they have doubled in number in three years. The stock is held by investors to a greater extent than ever in the corporation's history. At the end of 1916, 2,950,436 shares of Steel common, or 58.4 per cent. of the issue, were in hands of brokers, investors and speculators, 41.95 per cent., or 2,119,-448 shares. On December 31, 1918, brokers' holdings had declined to 2,069,263 shares, or 40.71 per cent., while investors held 3,013,662 shares, or 59.29 per cent of the stock.

Street Railway Crisis Near?

It is said that Washington fears a street railway crisis and that the Treasury Department and Department of Labor are endeavoring to find remedy for the situation. According to the Census Bureau separate valuations which had in 1912 a combined net income of $4,000,000 showed a deficit of $544,000 in 1917. It is alleged that companies representing 70 per cent of the total street railway mileage of the country are in the hands of receivers, and that approximately 400 miles of track have been abandoned. In the same period the ratio of operating street lines is the $100,000,000 increase in wages ordered by the National War Labor Board.

Year's Coal Production

It is estimated that bituminous coal production for the year to end with this month will approximate 570,000,000 net tons. Anthracite production from April 1, 1918, to March 15, this year, is estimated to total 89,127,000 net tons, compared with 95,370,000 for the corresponding preceding period.

DIRIGIBLE IDEAL CRAFT FOR SEA VOYAGE

By JOHN K. GOWEN JR.
Reserve Military Aviator.

Captain "Eddie" Rickenbacker, America's leading ace, returns to Boston tonight and is booked to narrate some of his thrilling overseas experiences at Symphony Hall.

With the transatlantic flight the absorbing topic of conservation in aeronautical circles, it is natural that Captain Rickenbacker's opinion on its possibilities be sought.

"There is no question but what we are going to have a flight across the ocean in a plane very soon," he is quoted as saying.

"But I don't think any combination of air and seaplane will make it at this time of the year because the waves are too high, and once a landing is made on the ocean there is no chance to make a getaway again.

"The dirigible is the logical craft for a satisfactory trip."

That the ocean flight of a practical aviator—one who has proved his skill in many an aerial combat, coming from Rickenbacker is deserving serious consideration.

Rickenbacker is an army aviator. And the navy pilots who are shortly to attempt a heavier-than-air flight from America to Europe will be a good deal of respect for him.

But that won't stop them trying to prove that the thing can be done, despite the opinion of Rickenbacker or any other land expert.

The sporting blood of the United States Navy has been thoroughly aroused by news that not only private British enterprise, but the British government as well, has for its object the intention of capturing first crossing honors.

Naval reserve flyers, released from active service, already are clamoring to get back into harness again in hope that they may be chosen to pilot one of the several machines that will be entered for the United States in this race of races.

Six naval officers and one marine officer are hard at work putting plans into shape. Meanwhile the British are sending their ships across, determined not to permit the Americans to "jump the gun" ahead of them.

Calmly, but with the calmness of determined effort, the United States is tuning up three big navy-Curtiss flying boats. Perhaps all, but at least one of these ships will make the attempt.

The Navy won't be stampeded into starting before the time is ripe. But the start will be made not in a spirit of practicable opportunity.

Rickenbacker is right in one respect, when he intimates that weather conditions at this season would make the attempt unwise. There is no question about early Spring bringing bad weather off the coast, and no one but a foolhardy individual would start in a storm, or with stormy weather threatening.

Aided by wireless telephony, through which it is possible that minor reports will be transmitted to the pilots en route, the American and British air racers will have a fair level best to make the trip without incident.

To date no serious suggestion has been made that a dirigible will be the first to cross. Exponents of the heavier-than-air craft believe that superior speed, with careful navigation, will conserve fuel, will win them the honors.

Is This a Country That Can't Take Care of Its Soldiers?

We Had Plenty of Money and Energy for Conscription. Plenty of Billions for War, and NOT ALL the Work of the Country Is Finished. Why Not Go On?

Copyright, 1919, Star Company

Millions of men in this country were taken away from their homes, their work, like so many trees uprooted. They were sent across the ocean to France, sent to camps all over the country, preferably as far as possible from their dwelling.

They were put in uniforms, drilled, worked, and while others were making great fortunes, or making greatly increased salaries out of war, these men in the army received half the pay of a competent messenger boy.

The men thus taken did not rebel or complain. They knew the country needed men. They were MEN, they were willing to go, willing to fight, willing to be shot, able to smile cheerfully as they lay in the hospitals crippled.

When the country needed men it took them and the men admitted that the country had a right to do it.

Now the MEN need WORK, and the country ought to admit that they have a right to demand it.

There is plenty of work in this country, there is plenty of work that needs to be done, there are roads that need to be built, swamps to be drained, deserts to be irrigated, public enterprises of all kinds waiting.

There are millions of acres of land that could be made fertile and productive. They could be cleared, irrigated or drained by soldiers, paid decent wages, working in a body under competent direction. Then the land should be divided up into small holdings and given to the soldiers, or sold to them at a low price on part time payments—to as many soldiers as cared to take up farm and country life.

Many excuses are made now. But the man who was called upon to go to war did not make any excuse. And if he had done so it would not have attracted much attention. The government has no right to make excuses NOW. It is big enough, rich enough, intelligent enough to use productively and without waste of a dollar every able bodied man at good wages.

There are countries at least TRYING to solve the problem, not merely talking.

Germany announces that she will build a million small houses to give work to soldiers while they are building, and homes to the soldiers afterwards. That is her antidote to Bolshevism.

France is putting her men on public works, although France compared with the United States is a finished country, ahead of us in roads, canals, railroads, public buildings, economical agriculture and almost everything else in the way of material completion.

For one striking example, look at Australia, right under your feet, on the other side of the world.

They realize there that men sent thousands of miles across the ocean to fight, to save their country and the British Empire from anxiety, have a right to demand that THEY when they come back shall be free from anxiety also.

The government of Australia, through Holman, Prime Minister, says that laws will be passed compelling employers to put back the returned soldiers in their old jobs. Thousands of soldiers will be settled on farm lands. And work will be found AT ONCE on public works for those that do not find other employment.

The government begins promptly by appropriating large sums of money to be lent to local boards that they may carry on public works as needed, using the soldiers in the work and paying them decently.

This country is rich, generous; it appreciates what the soldiers have done. Every man appreciates it, from the head of the government down to the poorest cripple.

The trouble here is lack of initiative, lack of somebody to say a word, lack of a concrete BEGINNING.

The demand that soldiers be kept employed, without loss of a day, after they have seen their friends and visited their homes, is not a mere personal demand from the soldiers themselves. It is a demand based on the welfare of the whole country.

If a million horses had gone to war and had come back, you would think farmers very foolish is they didn't put the horses to work right away. You would say that farms could not prosper if they were feeding a million horses and the horses doing no work.

If a horse is important to a farmer, a first class worker, a healthy, highly trained, enthusiastic young soldier is infinitely more important to the country.

Every day that he is unemployed is a waste to the nation as a whole.

Every day that a million men are unemployed is a clear waste of five millions of dollars. In thirty days the idleness of a million able men would represent a waste of labor and skill sufficient to build another Panama Canal, sufficient to connect the Great Lakes at Chicago with the Mississippi, the Gulf of Mexico and the oceans of the world.

Men should be put to work, well paid, kept contented. There should be no waste of human labor or human intelligence.

SHARE YOUR HAPPINESS WITH OTHERS

There are some lonely persons in your neighborhood or in the apartment house where you live, and not much trouble to find them, either.

It would not hurt you one bit to gladden their sad hearts by a cheery word or smile—a call on the little sick or tired mother or a bit of a flower to the wee invalid whose pinched and diminutive face presses the window pane as you pass each day.

There are elderly persons, weak from illness and unable to get around as you do and whose enforced retreat has made them discouraged and ready to give up the fight, wondering what there is left to live for.

You could take them the energy and enthusiasm of youth, and that is a mighty tonic, better than any medicine their money could buy.

Are you going to keep on withholding the glad things in your life which you might as well share with others?

If you were in the stay-at-home class—a shut-in—how you would appreciate visits from the younger ones and the children.

All you need is to make the start—make the first call—and you will realize how much it will gladden your own heart to spread and divide sunshine.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

Hope Springs Eternal

A JUGOSLAV reposed beside
The Adriatic sea,
And like the rising, rippling tide
His whiskers billowed free.
"I'm going to have a million ships,"
Said he, "to sail the brine.
No nation's commerce shall eclipse
The trade that will be mine.
With what these galleons supply
I shall be clothed and fed."
"And where'll you get these ships?" asked I.
"From Uncle Sam," he said!

"MY navy," said the Jugoslav,
Continuing his theme,
"Will lick the ships the Serbians have,
And that's no idle dream.
They'll be supplied with guns and men,
And food and drink beside,
And I shall use them now and then
To vindicate my pride.
All other nations I'll defy
When I am on the sea."
"And where'll you get the nerve?" asked I.
"From Uncle Sam," said he!

"AND I'll have money," he resumed,
When he had caught his breath.
"No more hereafter I'll be doomed
To work or starve to death.
I'll fill my treasury with gold,
A vast and goodly sum,
And envious nations shall behold
How rich I have become.
And I shall live on cake and pie
Instead of beans and bread."
"And where'll you get this gold?" asked I.
"From Uncle Sam," he said.

THE LIGHT

The trouble seems to be that the League of Nations has only two and three-quarters per cent. Americanism in it.

HE NEVER IS, BUT'S ALWAYS TO BE, DEAD

Even Adelina Patti had nothing on the Demon Rum in the matter of farewell appearances.

GENUINE SELF-SACRIFICE

Dr. Wilkins' return will probably keep several thousand old gentlemen with white side whiskers from hurrying in a panic to the barber shops.

Ye TOWN GOSSIP

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

By K. C. B.

(Written in San Francisco for the San Francisco Examiner)

TO THE Legislators
OF THE State of California.
AT SACRAMENTO.
DEAR LEGISLATORS.
SOME WOMEN have told me.
ABOUT A bill.
THEY'VE SUBMITTED to you.
TO PROVIDE the money.
TO BUY a farm.
FOR SOME other women
WHO ONCE on a time.
AND IT matters not why.
NOR WHAT the excuse.
LET THEIR wandering feet.
STRAY ONTO a path.
THAT LED them on.
THROUGH BRILLIANT lights.
IN A man-made world.
AND BLINDED their eyes.
THAT AHEAD of them.
LAY A gruesome place.
SO THEY couldn't see.
WHERE PHANTOM things.
IN FEMALE garb,
SOUGHT REST in vain.
IN THE shadowland.
OF THE Underworld.
AND THESE other women.
WHO HAVE looked down.
FROM THE heights above.
AND WHO come to you.
WHO MAKE their laws.
NOW ASK you.
THAT THEY may go down.
IN THIS shadowland.
WHERE THEIR sisters are.
AND BRING them back.

AND INSTEAD of jails.
AND THEIR window bars.
THAT IN your wisdom.
YOU PROVIDE a place.
WHERE THEY may go.
OUT INTO the light.
OF A God-made world.
WHERE THE warmth of the sun.
AND THE peace of night.
AND BROAD green fields.
AND WOODED hills.
AND SINGING birds.
MAY HEAL the wounds.
OF THEIR weakened wills.
AND THEIR wayward hearts.
AND, OF course, I know.
THERE ARE those of you.
WHO MAY honestly think.
THAT A steel-barred jail.
IS THE place for them.
BUT WHY not admit.
THAT YOU may be wrong.
AND THAT after all.
A SISTER may see.
WITH A clearer eye.
WHAT A sister needs.
AND I make this plea.
FOR BOTH of them.
FROM THE sunlit hill.
AND THE shadowland.
I THANK you.

Stars and Stripes

The wise man knows that he does not know woman.

Occasionally a man can act as his own lawyer, but he can seldom give himself an artistic haircut.

Even if the skirts are shortened, the lady with the Georgette crepe waist can keep up the interest.

SPEEDING THE TOMORROWS OF HOPE AND JOY

By Winifred Black

THE Little Boy ran into the house with a warm little fistful of discouraged looking dandelions.

"Here's a be-au-ti-ful bouquet for you, mama!" said the Little Boy. "And, mamsy, I want to ask you somefin'—somefin' secret."

"Well," said the Little Boy's mother, pinching her right hand with her left very hard to keep from rumpling the Little Boy's hair back out of his eyes in the way he hates. "Well, what is the secret question?"

The Little Boy leaned so close to his mother that she could feel a kind of soft warmth in the air. "Mama," said the Little Boy, speaking very softly, "mama, is it tomorrow yet?"

"No!—I mean yes, Little Boy," said the mother, hesitating an instant and then answering quite decidedly. "Yes, Little Boy, it is tomorrow—right now."

"Oh!" cried the Little Boy, beginning to dance like some kind of a strange, merry little toy wound up, "oh, then we can go into the real country and pick real flowers with smelling to them, and watch the real grass grow—and—and"—

"Yes, indeed," said the Little Boy's mother, "we can do all these things, and we will, too."

Everything Real

It was cool in the shade and warm in the sunshine, and it was thirsty work walking, and there was a real well by the real roadside, and a real woman at the door of a real farmhouse gave them a real drink and took them out to the barnyard and let them see a real calf before it had begun to worry about being a cow and acting respectable.

Over in the broad field the meadow lark whistled like a merry-hearted little boy calling to his beloved vagabond, the dog, who follows him by day and by night step for step and breath for breath.

"Follow me," whistled the lark high and clear. "Follow me, for where I am is Spring."

The Little Boy ran and shouted and whirled round and round with pure delight. And the sister, who ought to be little and isn't little at all, any more, jumped over fences and hung from low limbs of accommodating trees, and broke supple whips of willow, and was a fairy princess riding a milk-white steed, and then she was a circus rider in gorgeous skirts' coats, and then she was a great queen and held her nose high in the air, and then she was a runaway colt and whinnied and kicked up her heels.

And when the sun began to sink the Little Boy crept close to his mother and whispered:

"Mother, I'm glad this was tomorrow, aren't you?"

"Yes," said the Little Boy's mother—and she was very glad it was tomorrow right then and there. Tomorrow, the glorious tomorrow, the hopeful tomorrow of joy and kindness, and of light-hearted and simple love of living and all that living means!

Happy Inspiration

"I might have said that it was 'today,'" said the Little Boy's mother, as the three walked homeward in the soft Spring twilight. "I might have said to the Little Boy, 'Tomorrow hasn't come yet, my son,' and it would have been true, too—if I had said so. I'm glad I didn't—aren't you, Little Girl?"

And the sister, who ought to be little, smiled the strange, mysterious smile she has when she looks as if she heard sweet music and could not tell where it came from, or exactly what it meant, soothing and as yet—far away.

And in the evening, when the stars were out and the new moon looked down from the edge of a feathery cloud, the Little Boy's mother sat and looked at the moon and at the stars.

"Star light, star light," said the Little Boy's mother, "first star I've seen tonight; wish I may, wish I might, have the wish I wish tonight," and she raised her two forefingers in a sort of invocation that goes with the old rhyme to make it mean anything.

"I wish," she said, softly, "that all the tomorrows of delight and hope and joy may turn into todays for the whole race of us, just as this today turned into glorious tomorrow for the happy three of us."

135 Days of Armistice. Another War Starting? Bolshevism and Land. Charles XI. of Sweden.

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1919.

One hundred and thirty-five days have passed since the armistice was signed. Now you see the beginning of another war in Europe. Hungary siding with Russian Bolsheviks against Western Europe, Germany sending to Moscow to find out what propositions Russia will offer Germany.

The specialty of writers and talkers in the United States has been to underestimate the possible power of Bolshevism. Many of our important men have talked childish nonsense, forgetting that nearly two hundred million Russian people suddenly freed from tyranny, and BELIEVING IN THEMSELVES, whatever the rest of the world may believe, represent a force not to be ignored.

Revolution in France won victory after victory for the revolutionary armies, and then produced Napoleon.

There is no need for this country to worry unduly, if it will use its ENERGIES to look AFTER THIS COUNTRY.

It may occur presently to those whose official position and power give them responsibility that the first thing for American statesmen to do is to make AMERICA safe FOR AMERICANS. If necessary, let other parts of the world make themselves safe for their kinds of civilization.

This country can take care of itself. It has fortunately trained many men, built many ships, constructed twenty thousand flying machine engines which probably can fly a little, although the government has suggested junking them.

Millions of citizens believe that a league for perpetual peace is possible. Perhaps it is.

But one hundred and thirty-five days is a long time to postpone making any peace.

Observe the part that the land problem plays in these troubles.

In Hungary the land is in vast estates; arrogant idle nobles have held the peasants practically as serfs. To the English landowner, who said that he had on his place ten thousand sheep, the Hungarian magnate was able to reply that he had that number of shepherds. That kind of thing does not last forever.

Lack of land for workers made the trouble in Ireland, and it isn't over, in spite of England's efforts to adjust the matter of landlordism.

Lack of land for workers made the trouble in Russia. Alexander II. devised an insincere solution of the problem, freeing the serfs, but letting them buy land on a basis that made permanent tax slaves of them.

The French Revolution really did solve the problem. The land of France that once belonged to fifty thousand nobles is now divided among six million small proprietors that OWN France today.

Sweden solved the land problem two hundred and fifty years ago under Charles XI., called "The Peasant King," now forgotten in the glory of his son, "The Fighting Madman," Charles XII., but it was Charles XI. hardly able to read when he was seventeen years old, who published the famous reduktions that took the land from the nobles, establishing the magnificent land-owning peasantry that won Charles XII.'s battles for him.

The time has gone by when men would tolerate conditions under which a few own the country, while others own only their worries, their debts, their uncertain future, and the proud privilege of going out and dying for the country when somebody orders them to do it.

If somebody had done for Poland what Charles XI. did for Sweden, Poland would not have ceased to exist as a nation, and would not be struggling for national life today.

You cannot deal with Bolshevism by calling names. You cannot dispose of one hundred and eighty millions of Russians by sending out pamphlets saying that they are immoral or irreligious. Perhaps they are, but that will not keep them from fighting, and they have some powerful leaders.

You may truly say of Lenine, as was said of another leader, that "he is dangerous, because he means every word he says."

He believes that he can lead working men that lack his knowledge, and his altruism, to conquest of the whole world. He will find himself mistaken in the long run, as did the leaders in the Jacquerie in France, after the 100 years' war, and in a thousand other uprisings since and before the days of Spartacus.

But, for the moment, Lenine has obeying his orders practically all the millions in Russia. Hungary has gone over to him. Germany is alleged to be dealing with him. The allies and this country, discussing details in Paris, will do well to hurry the discussion and get ready for the storm rising in the East. Masses of people, close to the soil, are rising. In an earthquake wise men, don't waste time splitting hairs.
